FOREWORD

Undoubtedly all Creighton students know that it was through the benefaction of Edward Creighton that the university we now attend was founded. But all are not aware that it was through his efforts that lines of communication now span the United States.

The necessity of communication of knowledge was recognized by this man who left funds for the establishment of our university. But Ed Creighton also realized the necessity of national telegraph wires at the time of the Civil War.

This year marks the 100th anniversary of "Wires West." To celebrate the anniversary of this man's contribution to the progress of our country, this year's Blue Jay also wishes to acknowledge the progress of the university which he founded.

EVEN IN THE FACE of impossible hardships Edward Creighton's devotion to the cause of the Union moved him to prove the feasibility of his proposed telegraph line that would link the East and West.

Creighton University is the only Jesuit institution of higher learning named for a layman. But Edward Creighton was no ordinary layman. He can claim his share of fame in winning the West, preserving the union, taming the frontier and performing all of the other deeds attributed to heroes with more popular reputations.

Ed Creighton was born near Barnesville, Ohio, on August 31, 1820. He was the fifth of nine children born to James and Bridget Creighton, Irish immigrants who met and married in America. The father provided his brood with lessons in hard work, self-reliance and strict justice while Bridget, a gentle mother, supplied them with a Catholic fervor to last a lifetime.

A daring scrappy youth, Ed Creighton went into business for himself as a freighter at the age of 18. One of his jobs was hauling telegraph poles and this experience provided his early interest in the "singing wire."

In 1856 he arrived in the little frontier town of Omaha and decided to stay. After returning to Ohio to make Mary Lucretia Wareham his bride, he came back to Omaha to inaugurate a telegraph business. His first venture was a line between St. Joseph, Missouri, and Omaha. Following that he commenced the greatest achievement of his life.

With Civil War Imminent, Edward Creighton

IN OMAHA at 1710 Chicago Street, Edward Creighton and his wife, Mary Lucretia, lived until his death on November 3, 1874.

The year was 1860 and Civil War was imminent. Creighton reasoned that a telegraph line to California would bring the West—with its men, gold and supplies—into the Northern camp but the Federal Government was skeptical about the possibility of building the line through hostile territory and over difficult terrain.

To prove the feasibility of the line, Ed Creighton took off alone from Omaha to Denver, then to Salt Lake and—aboard a mule for most of the distance—he struggled across the snow-swept Sierra Nevada mountains in midwinter. When he arrived in Carson City, Nevada, he was snow blind and more dead than alive. Recovering quickly he pushed on to California. His safe arrival in Sacramento convinced reluctant Washington and the telegraph project was given funds and approval.

On July 4, 1861—just after the Civil War had started—Creighton set the first pole and started for Salt Lake where he was to meet a crew building east from California. Despite storms, floods, prairie fires, Indians, buffaloes, bandits and a host of other obstacles sufficient to defeat an ordinary man, Creighton arrived in Salt Lake a week ahead of the rival team on October 17, 1861. The Continent was spanned and this act did much to preserve the Union.

Creighton wasn't through. During the war he patrolled the line with a cavalry unit then sold out to Western Union at the cessation of hostilities. He is credited with discovering the cattle ranching possibilities of Nebraska and he helped persuade Union Pacific to make Omaha its eastern terminus. He built business blocks, a mercantile house, a hotel and served as president of the Omaha and Northwestern Railroad and the First National Bank of Omaha.

He died on November 3, 1874, and his wife died little more than a year later. In her will she had the provision which fulfilled her husband's oft-expressed dream, a free school for boys. The Jesuits were called in to administer the new institution which opened on September 7, 1878.

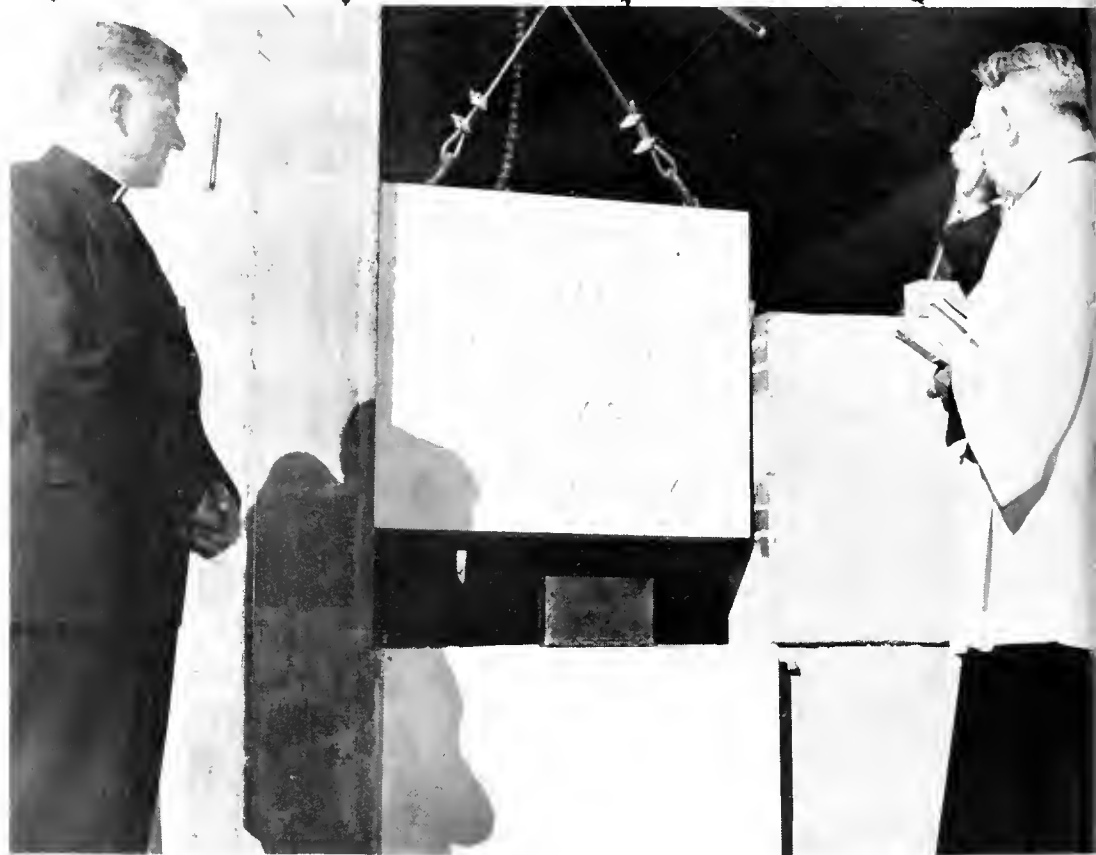

Today Creighton is no longer free and the co-ed enrollment is happily rising but the University stands as a wonderful monument to the memory of Ed Creighton, the pioneer builder, and to his brother, John, who shared his adventures and became the infant University's most generous benefactor.

Proposed "Wires West" Hoping to Save the Union

WITH THE COUNTRY split by civil war, Creighton helped unite the remaining parts of the union by laying telegraph lines west.

A Man of Peace

n the Humble Care of Souls . . . A Celebrity in God

A saintly expression, kind comments, and a shuffling step were the attributes of a Jesuit well-known and long-revered by Creighton students, the Rev. J. Clement Ryan.

The university spiritual director whose door was always open to his many friends died as he had lived—quietly and with complete resignation to the will of his God.

During his years at Creighton, the quiet crusader encouraged greater student participation in Mass and reception of the sacraments, and devotion to Our Lady's rosary.

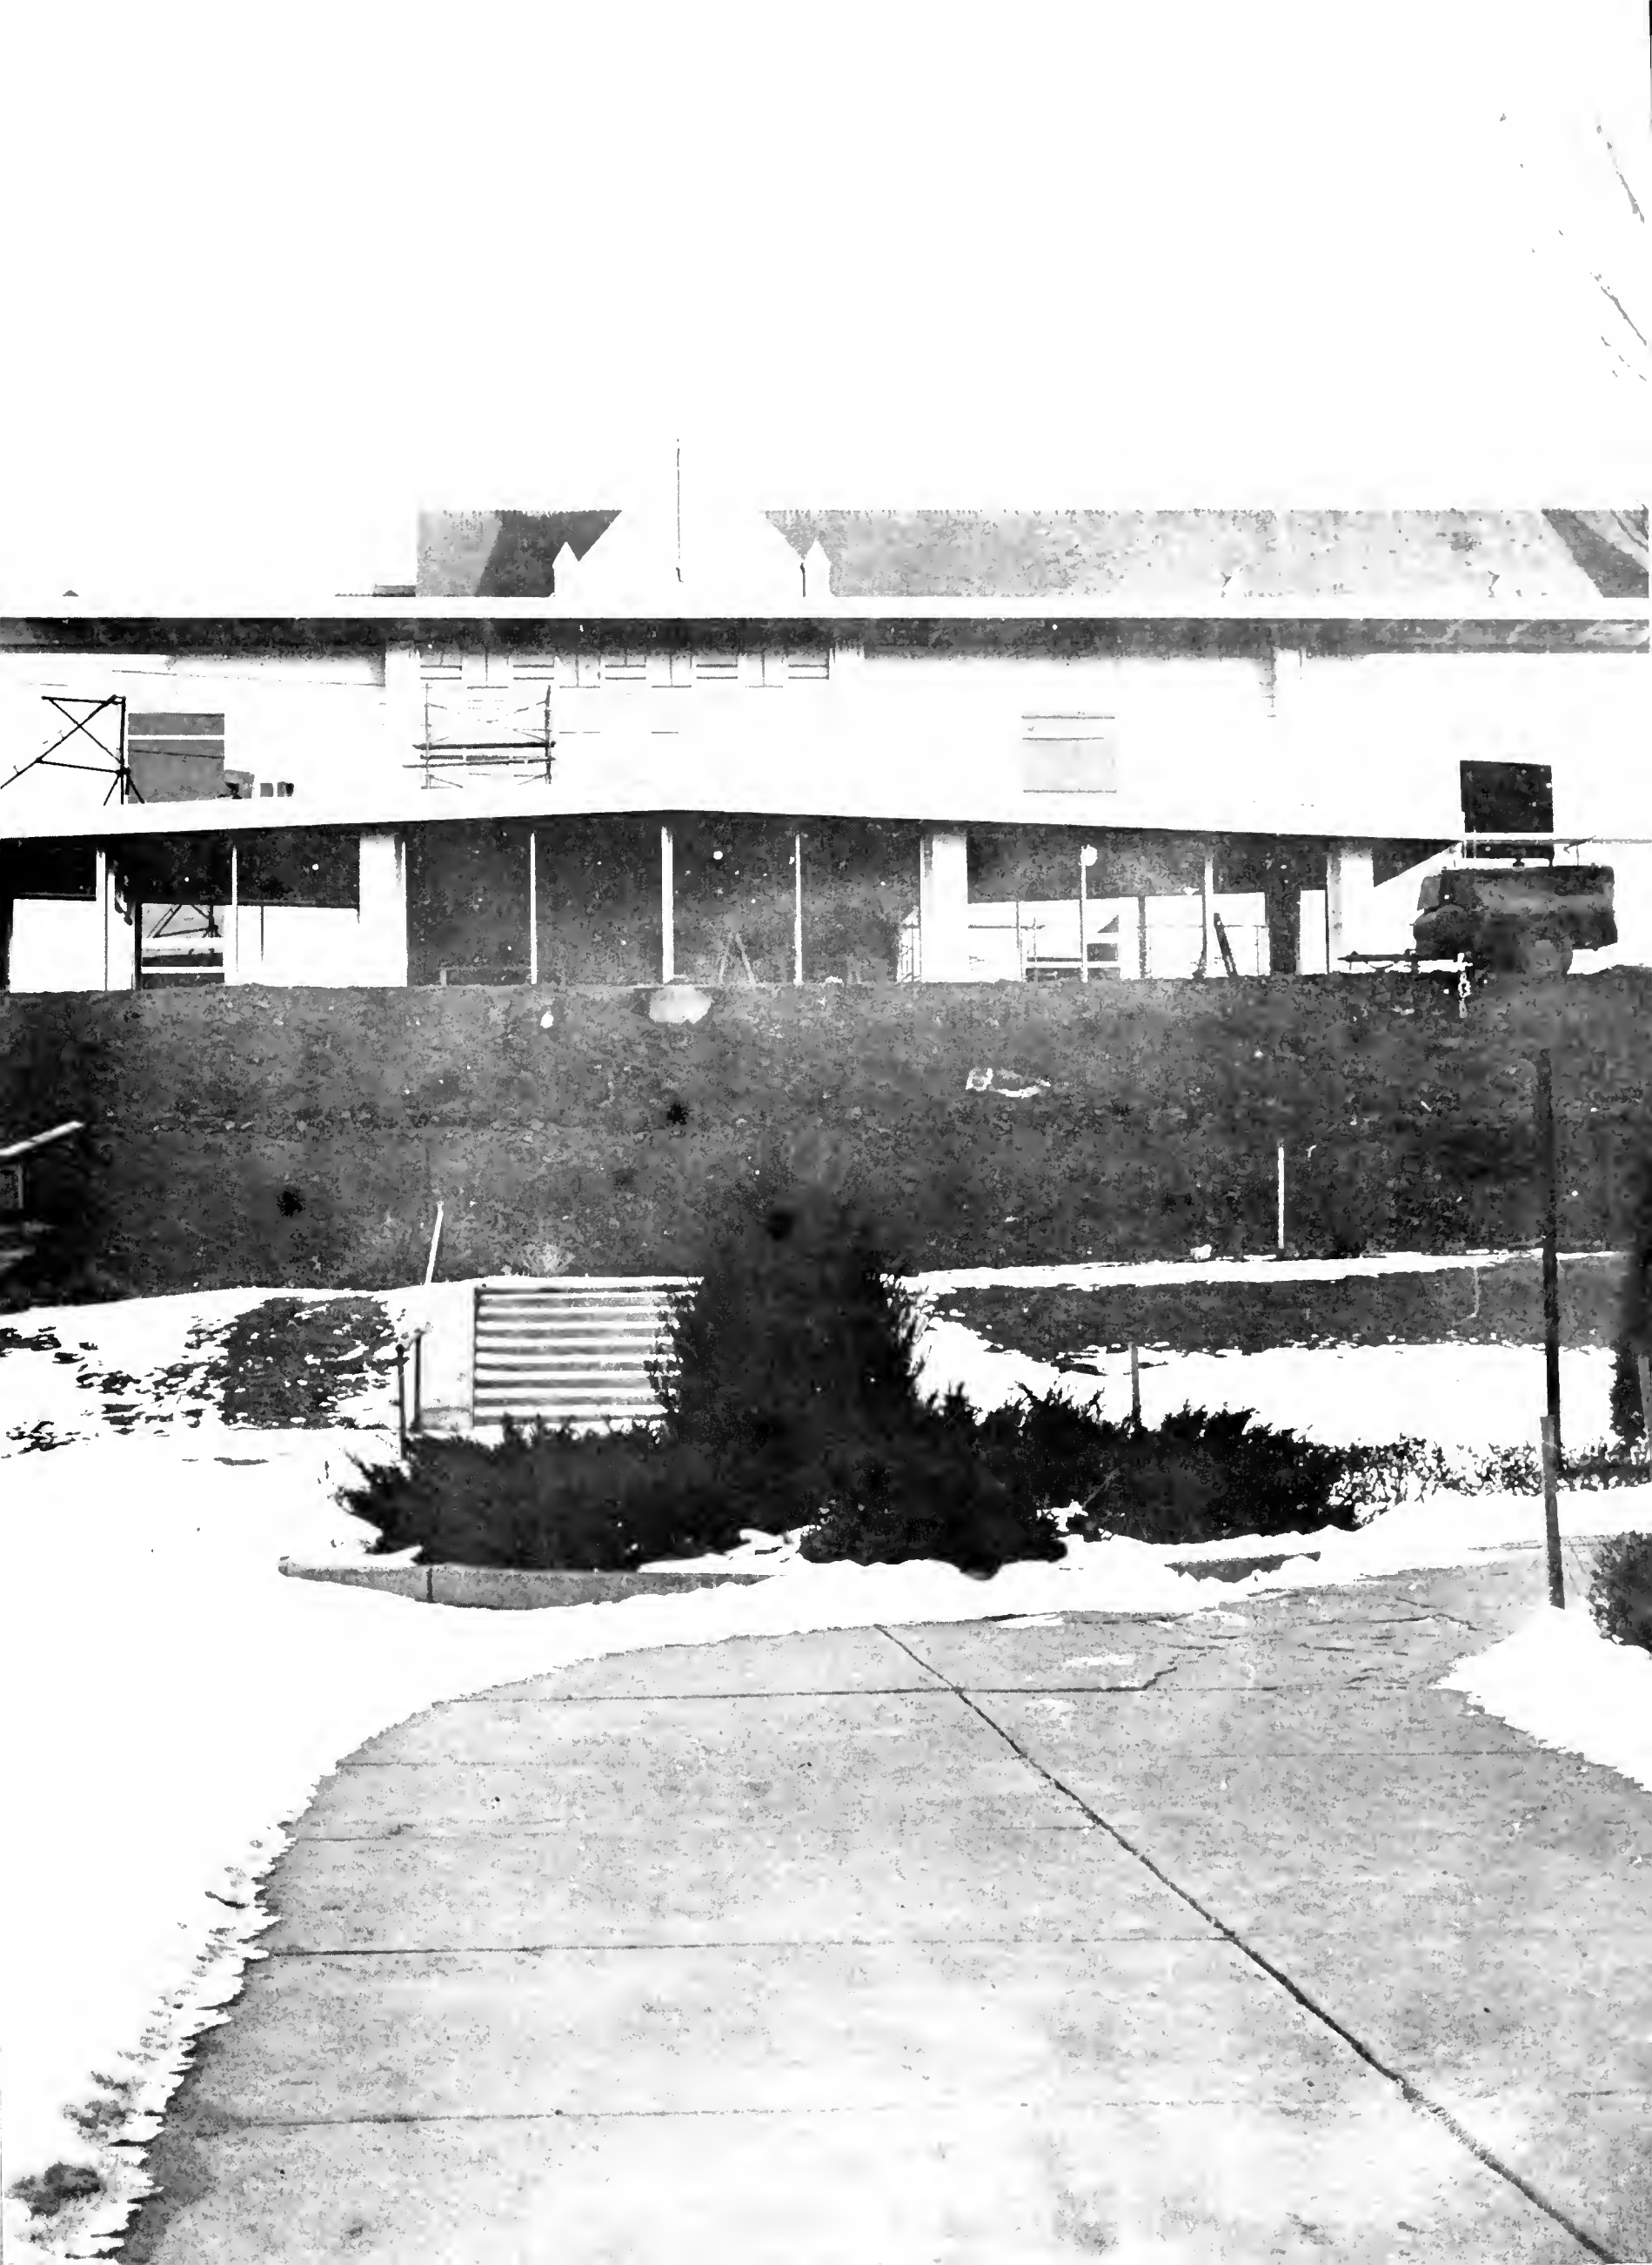

Students and faculty alike were inspired by his example. And both students and faculty showed their esteem for him by completely filling St. John's Church Nov. 14 to pray for the repose of his soul.

It is in appreciation of Father Ryan's spiritual direction and example that we dedicate this year's Blue Jay to him.

Fall

WELCOME WEEK is about over and the process of buying books and supplies must start. This means a crowded bookstore and a rush to get there before one of the needed textbooks has been sold out.

HELPING some new students pre-register is Father McKenny, Assistant Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. The next step for these students will be the hectic job of registration on Friday.

Freshmen Find Welcome Week Busy, But Fun

New faces and new friends were the scene of Welcome Week as Freshmen descended upon the dorms, bag and baggage. Day-hops and boarders met for get-acquainted sessions at the Student Center. Newcomers found fun, food, and an invasion of mosquitoes at the Frosh Picnic.

Before the first textbooks were opened, students-to-be attended mixers and pre-registration conferences, and boned up on college "do's and don'ts" at orientation assemblies.

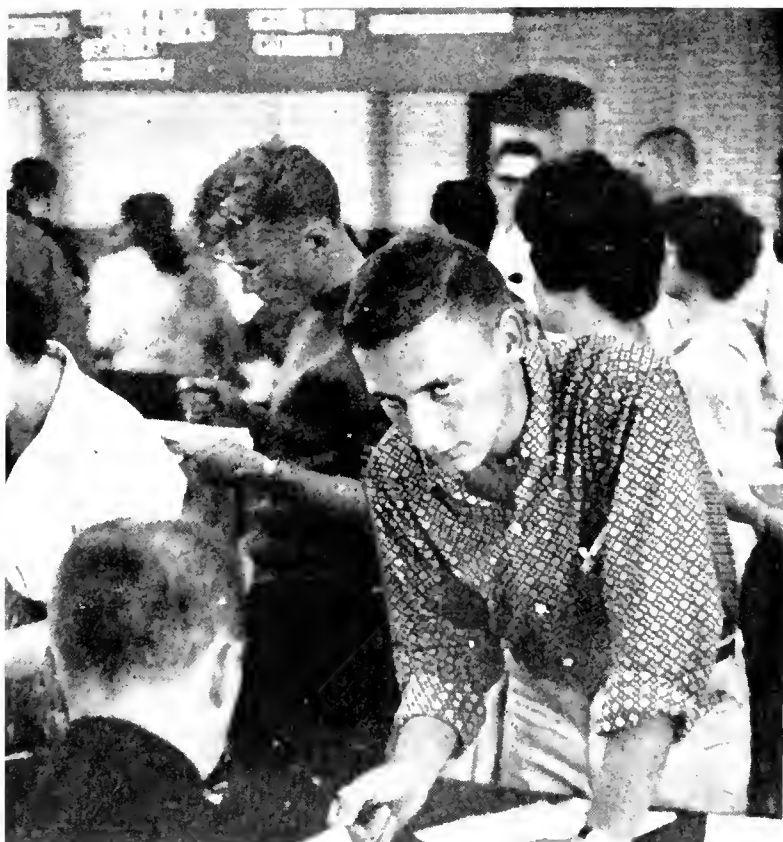

FRESHMEN COEDS are getting a little helpful advice from Mrs. Hamilton, Dean of Women, at her tea for Freshmen girls. Seems like at this point, however, Mrs. Hamilton and the girls are distracted.

"GEE, this is a pretty good dance. I just might ask that girl over there to dance." Welcome Week mixers always seem to draw a large crowd and to serve the purpose of getting new students acquainted.

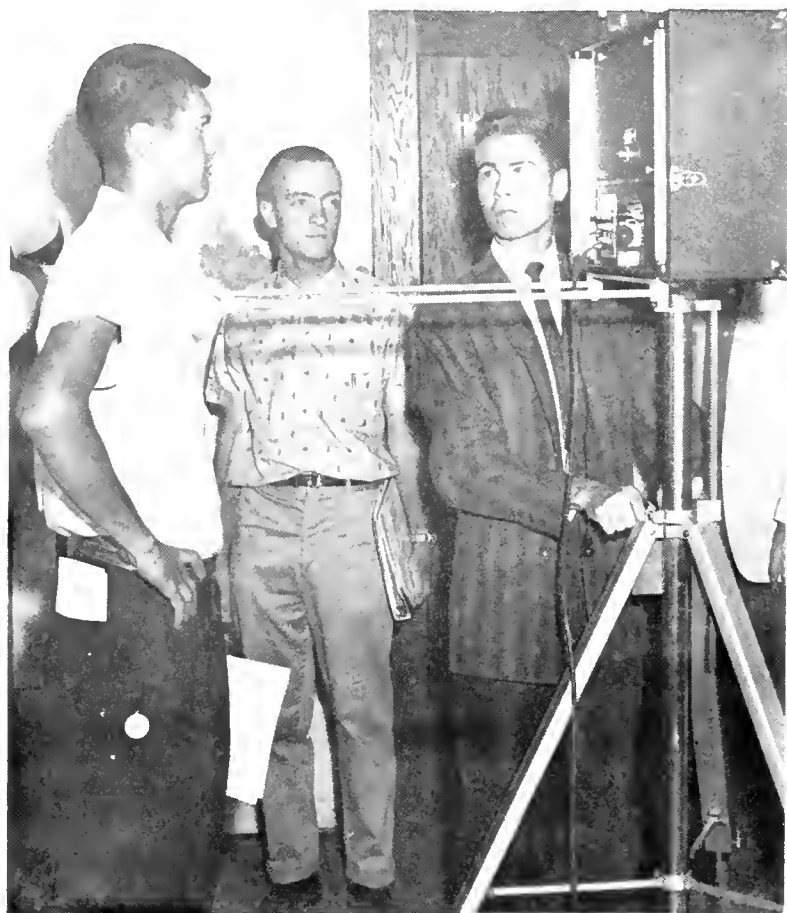

BEWILDERED STUDENTS find a word of advice from Father Shanahan as they trudge along the never-ending lines having their schedules, forms, and IBM cards checked, rechecked and checked again.

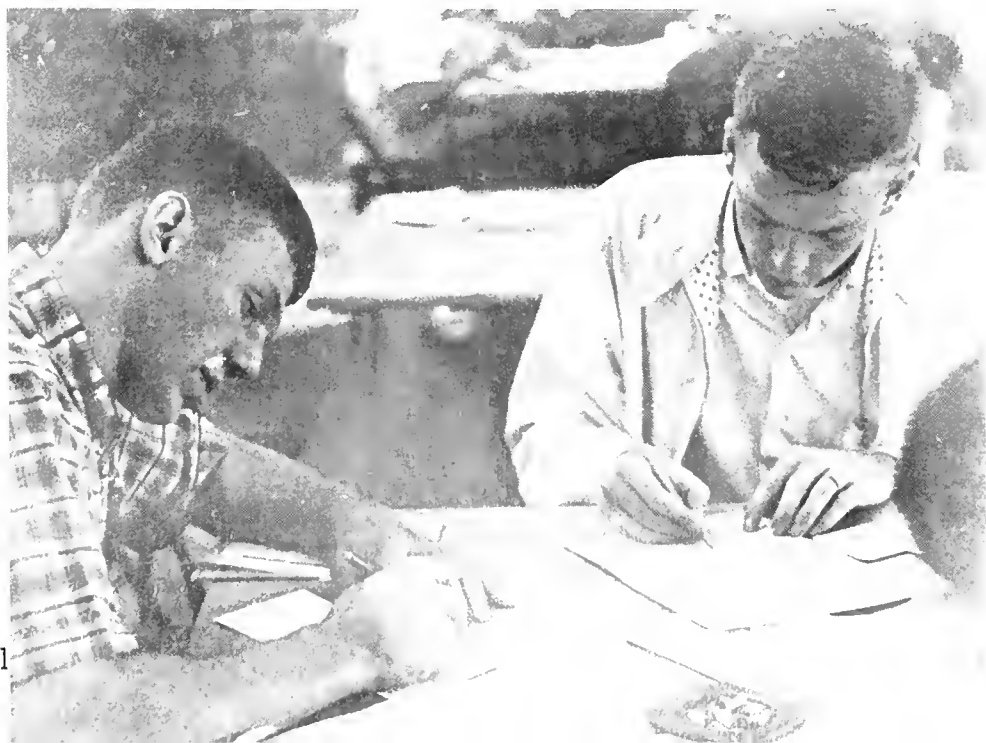

THIS BUSY registrant is only beginning the series of checkers. He has long forms to look forward to and the possibility of having one of his classes closed before he gets his IBM cards.

Registration Causes

TELL ME when you see your eyes in the camera. Click. Your picture has been taken for your student identification card. After the process of registration is over, this is proof you made it.

NO, NOT A TEST. It is just the endless forms of registration wanting all kinds of information that are causing both Jim Kurowski and Dick Nolan to wear these profound expressions on their faces.

PERFORMING WORKS OF MAGIC is Dr. Leo Kennedy, professor of education, who causes a registrant to laugh at her troubles.

SECTIONS & AUTHORIZATION BEFORE REPORT

AT LAST! THE IBM CARD LINE IS REACHED. Once the student gets through this line, he is assured of receiving his schedule.

Confusion and Weariness

The beginning of the year finds Hilltoppers assembling in the gym for registration. With zest each student sets out to fill in his class schedule.

But three hours and six cups of coffee pass before the weary collegian is able to choose a workable curriculum.

After completing his day with a "small" token to the bursar, the weary victim trudges home wondering if, just for once, he could survive this trial by ordeal.

OH NO! MY MATH CLASS IS CLOSED. Dodi Helget gasps as she fills in her schedule. Bob Zili calmly continues writing.

THESE RELIEVED STUDENTS safely pass through the IBM line as the closed class section board glares at them from above.

AWAITING CONVOCAATION EXERCISES, these students stand in front of the Civic Auditorium and discuss the activities of the day.

DURING CONVOCAATION EXERCISES Creighton students, who almost fill the Music Hall of the auditorium, glue their eyes to the stage.

AN INDICATION OF THE NEARING END of Convocation exercises is this "resting" student. It must have been a weary day for him.

FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE TO THE UNIVERSITY Edward Murphy receives a citation from the Very Reverend Carl M. Reinert, S.J.

Convocation Day Begins

RECEIVING ACCLAIM FOR TELEVISION "FIRSTS" was The Rev. Roswell C. Williams, S.J. The Rev. Virgil Roach presents the citation.

Convocation Day opened with the celebration of the Solemn High Mass of the Holy Ghost at St. John's Church for senior and professional students and at St. Cecilia's Cathedral for undergraduates.

The Civic Auditorium Music Hall was chosen as the site of this tenth Convocation of all the students and faculty members.

For outstanding and dedicated service to the university, the Rev. Roswell C. Williams, S.J., director of communication arts, and Edward D. Murphy, university business manager, received citation plaques from the Very Rev. Carl M. Reinert, university president.

In his address, Father Reinert noted progress on the development program and announced a new alumni fund-raising system of class agents.

At the third annual Student Leadership Conference held on Convocation evening, the 175 students attending discussed the student and his responsibility, the university and leadership training, student life, and human relations of the university.

Recommendations were sent to the Student Board and to Father Reinert.

TO FORMALLY OPEN FOUNDERS WEEK, His Excellency Gerald T. Bergan, Archbishop of Omaha, celebrates the Mass of the Holy Spirit.

with the Celebration of the Mass of the Holy Ghost

ADDRESSING THE STUDENT BODY at the Mass of the Holy Spirit in St. Cecilia's Cathedral is the Rev. Thomas C. Donohue, S.J.

DISCUSSING THE STUDENT LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE with General Chairman John Maginn are Jim Kelly, Marianne Gau, and Leland Mick.

THE PRESENTATION of the American and Creighton University flags by the university color guard opens the events of the evening.

32nd Military Ball

The major event of the year for ROTC and Phalanx members, and an outstanding night of the year for all of those who attended, was the Military Ball.

The Military Ball, sponsored by Phalanx was held November 11th, at Peony Park. This 32nd annual ball was sparked by the first grand march by officers and ladies in drill maneuvers.

The ball started with the presenting of the colors and was dotted with many features centered around this year's honorary colonel, Ann Bergschneider, a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Following the award for honorary colonel, Leroy Foreman was given the rank of regimental commander. This award is presented to the outstanding pupil of military science who has proved his ability through outstanding accomplishment.

From 9 P.M. until midnight Ray Bachman provided the usual "marches" with a more sedate beat.

PREPARING TO MARCH down the aisle are the six candidates for Honorary Colonel: Marianne Gau, Ann Bergschneider, Sandra Clark, Susannah Svoboda, Dolores Helget, and Helen Scherr. These Co-eds were chosen in an all-school election.

WATCHING as Col. Adams pins a medal on Cadet Commander LeRoy Foreman are Ann Bergschneider, Mary Loretta Blake, and Tom Ament.

Is Again Held at Peony Park

THE BIG THREE, Lt. Col. Le Adams, Ann Bergschneider, and LeRoy Foreman play an important part in the events of the evening.

ESCORTING Honorary Lieutenant Colonel Helen Scherr down the stairs is Company Commander Robert Davis.

SINGING CAMPAIGN SONGS for both political parties at Sunday night's rally were enthusiastic songleaders Vicki Harris, Marg Ann Robinson, Jim Watson, Larry Louis, and Dick Ward.

DISCUSSING party politics with Fred Montag, Bob Sylvester, and John O'Maley is Democratic gubernatorial candidate Frank Morrison.

Rally, Election Highlight

Sparking political interest among Creighton students, Political Education Days were held the week prior to the Presidential election.

Highlighting the four-day event were a political rally and election. Debates and discussions, campaign songs and banner parades sent enthusiasm to a fever pitch. The purpose of the ARDENT DEMOCRATS Leslie Horn, Jerry Dugan, John Heenan, Bill Cavitt, Jerry Morrison, Kenneth Smith, Fran Munch, Steve Horn, and Tom Dowd work enthusiastically for the Democratic party.

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR of speech, Harry Langdon, leads some energetic Democratic boosters in a parade through the Student Center.

AT THE RALLY during Political Education Days, the speakers formally representing the views of the Democratic party are Phil Smith, Tom Carl, and Pat Green.

ON THE OTHER SIDE of the campaign fence, presenting the Republican party's views at the political rally are Republican boosters Tim Rouse, Pat Ryan, and Joel Moser.

Political Education Days

rally was to determine American youth's place in the political sphere.

In the mock election, students overwhelmingly chose Kennedy over Nixon.

Guest speakers included Republican Carl T. Curtis, U. S. Senator, and Frank Morrison, candidate for Nebraska Governor.

TWO INTERESTED STUDENTS, Jim McEvoy and Rick Wilhoit, talk with Republican Senator Carl Curtis after his address in the Center.

DISCUSSING some of the issues of the coming debate at the Political rally are two participants, Pat Ryan and Tom Carl.

PREPARING the Young Republican campaign headquarters are enthusiastic campaigners Rick Wilhoit, Caryl Burns, Sharon Leisen, Joel Moser, George Hill, Charlotte Dorwart, and Larry Leppert.

THE ALII'S, composed of Wayland Chang, Jerry Sera, Alan Honda, George Basque, and Calvin Lum, return for an encore.

THIS IS YOUR LIFE! Father Hasbrouck, Chief-Hunts-by-Night, and Jim McEvoy present a short routine resembling the TV show.

Club Internationale Presents a Variety of Talents

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL singing performance was that given by guitar-playing Dottie Smith who was assisted by Paul Kaufmann.

SINGING AND COMEDY are a part of the performance as Julie Keitges and Joe Moser present their renditions of popular songs.

Were you there? Did you see the Pep Club-sponsored fifth annual talent show?

Jim McEvoy was the witty Master of Ceremonies who supplied continuity in the midst of variety. Mademoiselles and hombres performed everything from impersonations to acrobatics, cheers to pantomimes, and dances to songs to guitar renditions.

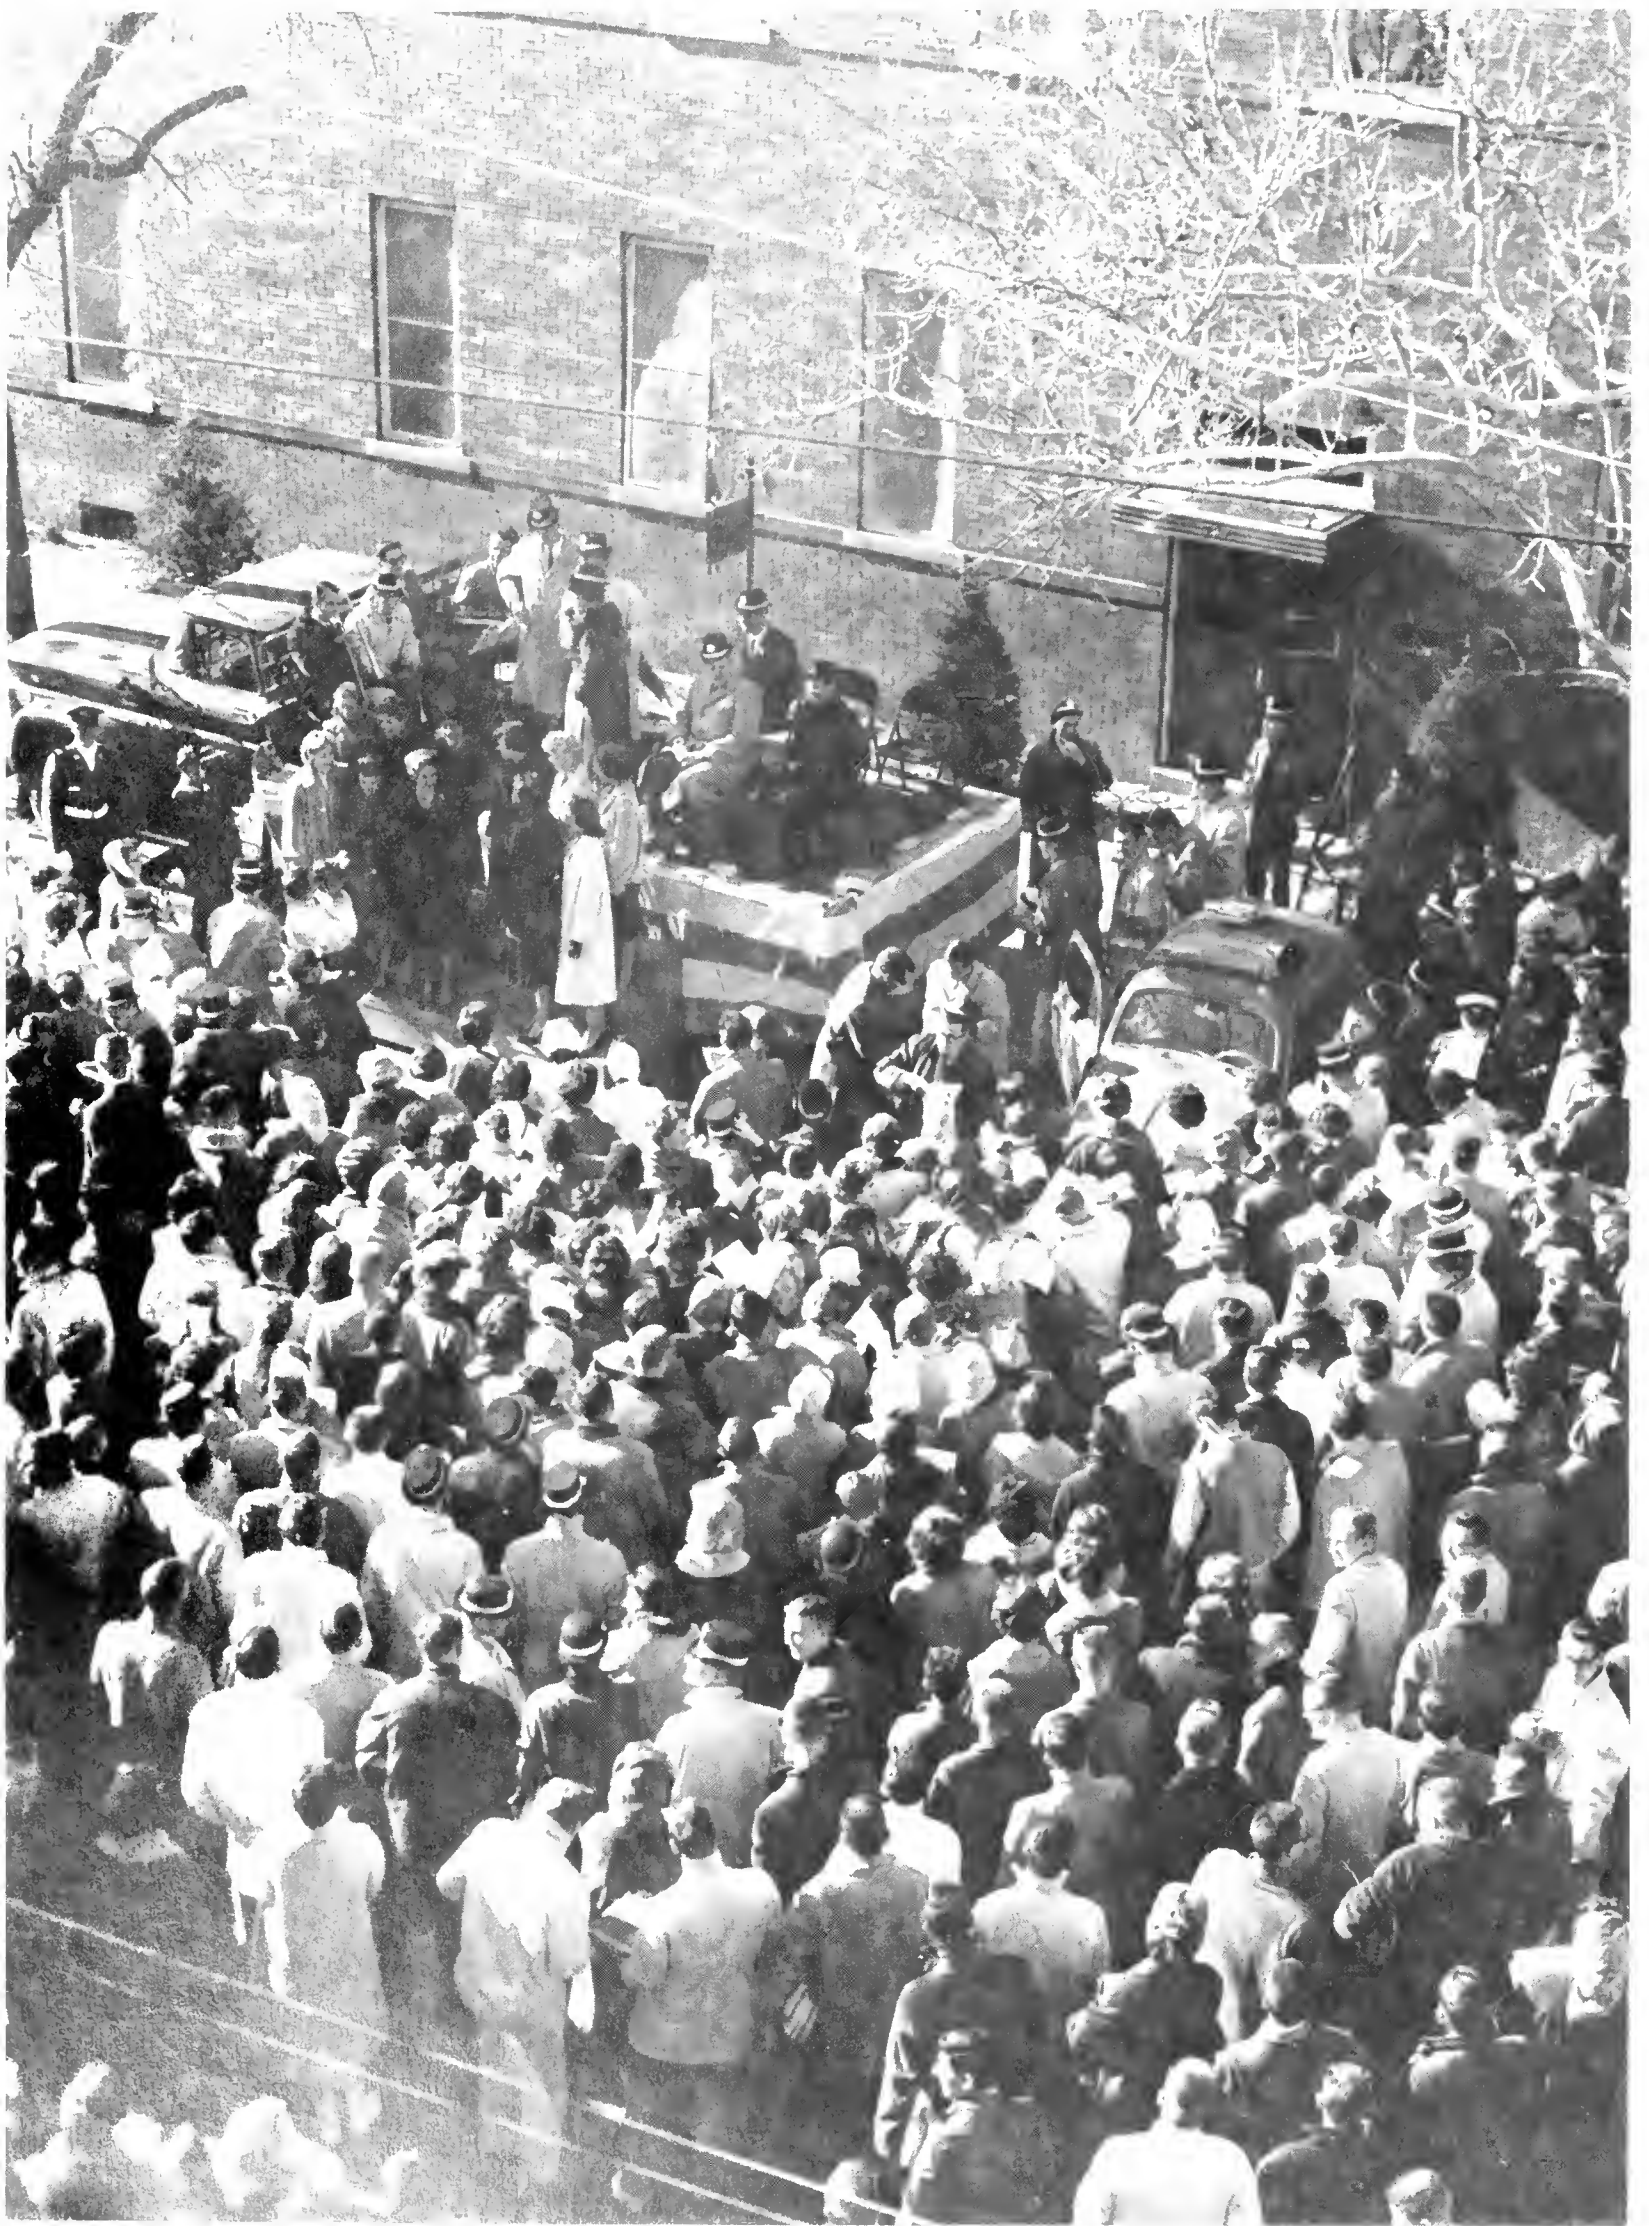

Talent and fun are the words to remember!

'60 Homecoming Theme Is "The Sound of Music"

The Sound of Music's first note was heard Wednesday at 11:45 when Queen Mary Loretta Blake was presented to her campus subjects.

Activities began with the reading of the proclamation by John McEvoy and continued as master of ceremonies, Denny Barmettler, introduced guests, Fr. Hanley and Dr. Urban.

The excitement of the day got its finishing touches at the variety show held in the Center and got the down beat again Thursday with a snake dance and pep rally.

THE VARIETY SHOW presented by Alpha Psi Omega, honorary dramatics fraternity, fills the audience with the spirit of homecoming.

CHOSEN BY THE PEP CLUB to receive the first Blue Jay Spirit Award is Mary Cain. The plaque was presented to her at the rally.

THE PROCLAMATION is read by Student Board President John McEvoy.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that Mary Loretta Blake is Queen has just come.

QUEEN Mary Loretta Blake begins her reign over '60 Homecoming.

CHECKING THE ROUTE of the Homecoming parade with his assistant, Dave Martin, is the 1960 Homecoming parade marshal Dick Niichel.

Parade, Basketball

With the dismissal from classes at 11 a.m., Friday's events began. Paraders and floats were convoked on California Street. 12:30, and the parade wound its way through downtown Omaha back to the stadium where the floats were transformed into burning embers. .

After the flames had faded, the stadium became the meeting place as the freshmen challenged the sophomores in a pushball game.

Starting with the presentation of the Carl Ciani Award to the best athlete, Dick Hartman, the basketball game added excitement as rooters watched the Jay's victory over South Dakota.

The dance and coronation followed, and 1:00 a.m. found the couples leaving. Tony Cennamo's music stopped, the lights dimmed, and Homecoming had come to an end.

ST. JOHN'S students are introduced to Bill Bluejay by Dan Meylor.

FLOAT builders work all Thursday night to meet Friday's deadline.

FIRST PRIZE for the cars went to Delta Sig's "Untouchables."

STUDENTS await the lighting of the bonfire and the pep rally.

Game, and Dance Highlight Homecoming Activities

HOMEcoming dignitaries watch the parade as it passes their stand.

THE PARADE travels up Farnam on its way through downtown Omaha.

AT INTERMISSION CEREMONIES Homecoming Queen Mary Loretta Blake is crowned by Student Board of Governors President John McEvoy.

TAKING TOP HONORS in the Homecoming parade's large float division are Theta Phi Alpha sorority and Delta Sigma Pi fraternity.

PERFORMING at the Christmas program this year are the Fathers Four. This newly formed quartet is composed of the Rev. Anthony Weber, S.J., Jon Calhoun, Jim Boldan, and Jon Jennings.

Christmas Spirit Rises

As the Christmas spirit began to permeate the air, Creightonians were busied with thoughts of parties, holiday programs, and a good two weeks away from school.

The university buildings and some of the dormitories were gayly decorated for the yuletide season, almost making the student forget his last minute assignments and term papers.

Besides their many activities, fraternities, sororities, sodalities, and other groups did works of charity by visiting hospitals, homes for the aged, and delivering Christmas baskets.

TRIMMING the mammoth Christmas tree that greets hilltoppers who enter the Student Center via the Cass Street entrance poses a problem for these two employees of Nationwide.

RESIDENTS of fifth floor Deglman, Fr. Hasbrouck, Fr. Flanagan, and special guests enjoy a dinner together in the faculty dining room just before Christmas vacation to celebrate the coming holiday.

THE CHOIR, under the direction of Harry Langdon, gives its annual concert of choral music which features Christmas music from around the world: U.S.A., England, France Italy, Russia, and Germany.

Spring

Seventh Annual Spring Festival Brings Amish

NOBODY said anything wrong. Bill Tobin, Bob Bowe, Steve Cannon, and Phil Crowey are just singing a song for the musical comedy.

"By Hex," the seventh annual spring musical at Creighton, was presented in the Music Hall of the Civic Auditorium on May 6.

The musical comedy, which details the lives of an Amish bishop's family and how they are affected by a young neighbor's decision to adopt modern ways, found its first form in the gym. Here, the cast spent long hours of rehearsal.

THIS IS HOW IT'S DONE. Harry Langdon, assisted by pianist Joel Meyer, demonstrates to the cast how the song should be sung.

DAUGHTERS of an Amish bishop, Lenore Wallace, Jeanne Sondag, Julie Kretges, and Vicki Harris, listen as Mickey Brenner sings.

DIRECTOR Harry Langdon explains a difficult scene to Vicki Harris, who is having trouble deciding how she should act out her part.

CAST MEMBERS gather around the piano while Harry Langdon is explaining some of the finer points of the musical to all of them.

Community to Music Hall of Civic Auditorium

Highlights of the show were a joyous Market Day scene including a folk dance, a modernistic lantern-dance ballet, a scene consisting of polkas and waltzes, and beautiful love songs.

General director, Harry Langdon, was assisted by Arlene Peterson, choreographer; Rev. Anthony Weber, S.J., dialect advisor; Ralph Ellsworth, advisor in staging and dance techniques.

IT'S HIS FAULT. Coming to the assistance of Julie Kietges and Bill Tobin, Mr. Langdon sees the need for further explanation.

DANCING CAN BE FUN. Lenore Wallace, Phil Crowley, Steve Cannon, and Jeanne Sondag learn from choreographer Arlene Peterson.

THE AMISH BISHOP. Bob Bowe, persuades the community to share his daughter, Julie Kietges, and his neighbor, Bill Tobin.

PLAYING THE PART -- a friendly neighbor, Annie, of the bishop, Bob Bowe, and his family is Mickey Brenner, Arts' junior.

WITHOUT the many props Lenore Wallace, Vick Harry, and Julie Kietges manage to act out their parts as Bill Tobin sings.

TAKING THE FLOOR again to discuss the issue at hand is John Gleason. The crowd of students attentively listens to the argument.

PONDERING A QUESTION of parliamentary procedure is Chairman John McEvoy. Jerry Faricy and Dodi Helget watch over the meeting.

Over 190 Corporation Members Attend Meeting

THE IDEA OF HAVING a bulletin published by the Student Board of Governors is offered by Art Konopka, Creightonian columnist.

The annual meeting of the Creighton University Student Union Corporation took place in the Student Center on March 27. All students enrolled at Creighton, stockholders of the corporation, are subject to its constitution.

Student-proposed changes to the Corporation Articles and By-Laws were submitted to those present after lively discussion and debate. Practical solutions to current problems were proposed, and most were accepted by those present. The Student Board, with John McEvoy presiding, was in charge of the procedure.

"I DISAGREE," protests senior Jim Brady as junior Tim Rouse carefully listens to his argument. Both are Debate Club members.

THE ISSUE OF THE PROM on Saturday night calls Tom Ament to the floor to offer his views. Leo Micek, and Hugh Schmit listen.

IT'S NOT FOOTBALL SEASON, but these players don't seem to be too worried about the fact as they play a "small" game of football.

LAST YEAR'S CHAMPS of the faculty-student softball game still look like they are going to be hard to beat at this year's picnic.

Undergraduate Picnic Affords Fun for Hilltoppers

Elmwood Park was the scene for Creighton's undergraduate school picnic again this year. Classes were dismissed for the day, and students and faculty alike headed for a day of fun in the sunshine of West Omaha.

The big event of the afternoon was the annual faculty-student softball game. These are hard fought games with the faculty usually coming out the victor.

Both faculty and students spent an active day, and by the end of the afternoon everyone was ready for the refreshments that were served.

A LITTLE MUSIC and some singing after lunch are these picnickers' formulae for relaxation and for bringing the day to an end.

FORGETTING all about the snap quizzes they are going to give tomorrow, these faculty members seem to be enjoying themselves.

FOOD, AT LAST. After an active day, Creightonian come running for their pop and line up for some hot dogs and potatoe chips.

ACADEMIC

Administration

University President Promotes Ten-Year Plan

Busy days and nights are the result of keeping up with a rapidly growing Creighton University. And Creighton's president certainly has enough to keep him busy!

Appointed University president in 1950, the Very Rev. Carl M. Reinert, S.J., has taken on both university and civic tasks with seemingly boundless energy.

Because of his many activities and varied interests, Father Reinert is in almost constant demand as a speaker at both educational and civic functions throughout the year.

Much of the success of Creighton's Ten-Year Plan is a result of Father Reinert's hard work and good judgement.

During his ten years at Creighton, Father Reinert has seen the completion of the Loyola Student Center and of Deghman Hall for men; in progress are the nearly finished library and new women's dorm, the College of Business Administration, and the air-conditioning plant.

From official functions such as greeting dignitaries and presiding over University meetings of the Board of Trustees to cheerleading for the basketball team and singing in the Jesuit quartet, Father Reinert is never too busy to greet the students on their way to classes.

THE VERY REV. CARL M. REINERT, S.J., for the past ten years, has been the backbone of the university and the key to its future.

THE PRESIDENT of the University, Father Reinert, with his warm smile assures the students that they are always welcome.

CREIGHTON'S board of Trustees includes The Rev. William Keley, S.J., Vice-President; The Rev. Thomas Murphy, S.J., Treasurer; The Very Rev. Carl Reinert, S.J., President; The Rev. Richard Harrington, Secretary; and The Rev. Henry Linn, S.J., Legal Advisor.

Vice-Presidents Manage Various University Affairs

VICE-PRESIDENT in charge of University Relations is The Rev. Henry W. Linn, S.J., A.M., S.T.L., Ph.D.

The Rev. Henry W. Linn, S.J., Vice-President in Charge of University Relations, has had numerous teaching and administrative duties since coming to Creighton in 1938. A former dean of the College of Arts and Sciences as well as of the Graduate School, Father Linn has also been head of the journalism department. His present work has sent him to all parts of the United States as part of an alumni fund-raising program.

The Rev. William F. Kelley, S.J., Vice-President in Charge of Academic Affairs, was dean of the College of Arts and Sciences from 1951 to 1958. A former instructor in education, Father Kelley has general supervision over the academic administrations of the various University schools and colleges. He is also in charge of faculty appointments, and he is the chairman of the Committee on Scholarships and Grants-in-Aid for the University.

As Vice-President in Charge of Finance, the Rev. Thomas H. Murphy, S.J., handles the financial matters of the University. He has been University Treasurer for the past thirty-three years, and is respected in business as a wise investor and finance manager.

VICE-PRESIDENT in charge of Academic Affairs is The Rev. William F. Kelley, S.J., A.M., Ph.L., S.T.L., Ph.D.

VICE-PRESIDENT in charge of Finance is The Rev. Thomas H. Murphy, S.J., A.M., LL.M.

University Functions through Various Directors

As a student journeys through four years at Creighton, he comes in contact with the various directors of the University.

During registration, the student pays his tuition to the cashier. The bursar, in turn, records the money in the student's financial record. The unseen work of the auditor keeps a general and minute record of the payments to and expenditures of the University.

The business manager has a keen eye for buying property for the University. Expenses for construction are also under his surveillance.

University equipment is obtained through the purchasing agent, who is responsible for all educational facilities. The Jesuits have a "purchasing agent," too. Their material goods are supplied by the minister.

Come term paper time, a student will come under the influence of the director of libraries and the University librarian. A student's noteworthy achievements are sent to his home-town paper by the director of Public Relations.

Job interviews are sponsored by the director of admission counseling. After the student has graduated, his ties to the University are secured by the director of Alumni Relations.

Advisors' Counselling Is Sought by Creightonians

DEAN OF STUDENT AFFAIRS is the Rev. Austin E. Miller. Among his many activities, Father Miller oversees the activities of the Student Center and counsels students seeking advice.

NEWLY APPOINTED Spiritual Director, the Rev. Leonard P. Piotrowski, succeeds the late Rev. J. Clement Ryan. Father Piotrowski renders friendly and competent assistance to students.

The individual student has a listener for any problem, scholastic or personal, in the offices of the student advisors. Because they are always interested, these counselors are continually in demand. Office hours are long and often weary, yet the student advisors are willing listeners.

Mrs. Maurine Hamilton, dean of women, has as her duty, the welfare of all women students on the Creighton campus. She also carries out the policies and regulations of the Student Life Committee. She is moderator of the Pan-Hellenic Council, and for Gamma Pi Epsilon, national Jesuit honorary society for women.

The Rev. Leonard P. Piotrowski, S.J., University spiritual director, finds a solution for troubled students. He is always ready for a friendly chat, be it about school or personal plans. He supervises the annual retreats, and gives a brief sermon at the four Student Masses each week.

The Rév. Austin E. Miller, S.J., dean of student affairs, is kept busy in the non-academic areas of college life. As Chairman of the Student Life Committee, he sets the policies concerning student discipline and campus events.

DEAN OF WOMEN for Creighton is Mrs. Maurine M. Hamilton. Upholding the ideals of the University, Mrs. Hamilton is the person to whom the co-eds entrust personal and academic problems.

Colleges

DEAN of the college of Arts and Sciences is the Rev. Virgil Roach, S. J. A.M., Ph.L.

The College of Arts and Sciences acts as the pivot on which almost every other phase of the University revolves. The Arts College is the core of the Ignation system of education and provides a sound foundation in the basic principles of Christianity.

The wide curriculum offered gives opportunity for specialization in various fields. While being an educational end in itself, it also offers advance preparation for professional training in the different areas. Here, the physician, lawyer, statesman and scientist of the future has his beginnings and will be given the stimulus needed to direct and encourage him in his chosen career.

It is the faculty of the various departments of the college under the able direction of Father Virgil Roach, Dean, and Father Thomas McKenney, Assistant Dean, that provides the necessary guidance for the Arts students. The faculty as an inspirational helper, can aid those searching for truth and reality, but it is the student who must work with knowledge as applied to himself.

This is the student, the Creighton graduate, who now enters the world as a man, ready to fulfill his obligation to God and his fellow man.

ASSISTANT DEAN of the College of Business Administration is Dr. Salvatore Valentino. He is also Director of the Finance Department.

DEAN of the college of Business Administration is Dr. Floyd Walsh. Dean Walsh has given 35 years of service to Creighton University.

Business Administration Looks Forward to Change

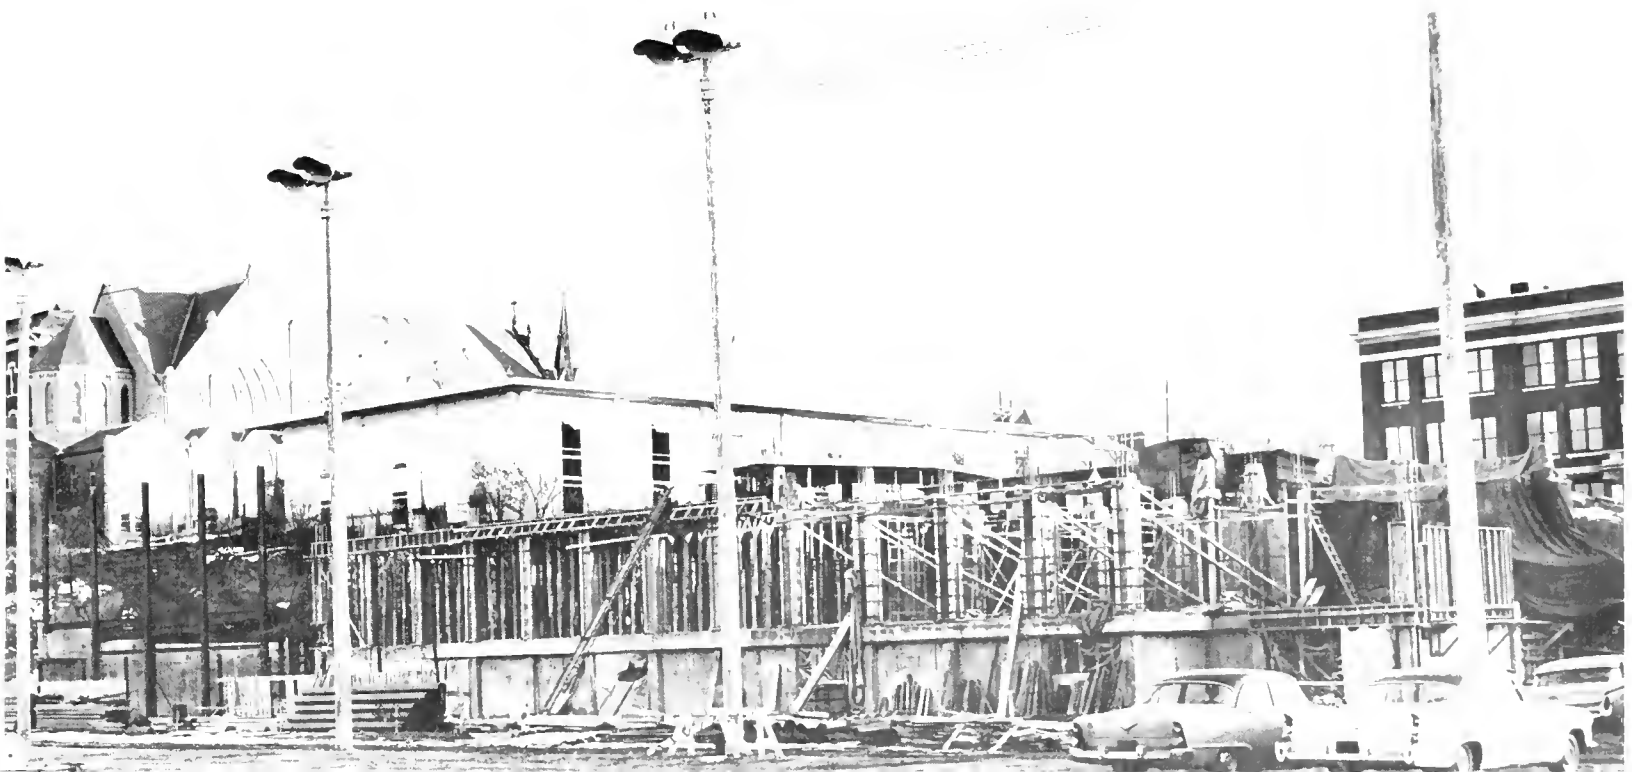

A one million dollar grant is helping the College of Business Administration realize a 35-year-old dream. Last year, the Eugene Eppley Foundation awarded the grant to the university to build a new Business Administration Building. Now under construction on the land formerly occupied by the stadium's south stands, the new structure will be comprised of 18 classrooms, 28 offices, four study and seminar rooms, five business research laboratories, a faculty and student lounge, a large lecture hall, and other related rooms. Architecturally, the building will be tied in closely with the new library, which will be ready for use during the coming summer session.

Previously, classes in Business Administration have been conducted in the Commerce Building on the corner of 25th and Cass Streets.

FROM PLANS TO FRAMEWORK, the new Eugene Eppley College of Business Administration is beginning to take form. The three-level building, situated north of the new library, will feature business laboratories, seminar rooms, lecture halls, and faculty offices.

They Train Businessmen

Nineteen faculty members comprise the roster of the College of Business Administration. One woman and eighteen men dedicate their scholarship, knowledge and experience to instill into the Business School's registrants the basics of the business world. Courses in statistics, economics, marketing, accounting, secretarial work and numerous other facets of Business Administration prepare students for the day when they themselves will embark on their careers. As other divisions of the university, the Commerce College combines laboratory sessions with lectures to provide students with a practical approach to theory courses. Headed by Dean Floyd E. Walsh, the faculty list includes men who are considered authorities in their particular fields.

THE COMMERCE BUILDING, standing at the corner of 25th and Cass Streets, will soon be evacuated by the college of Business Administration and its faculty. In its place will be a new highway.

Schools

DEAN of the Creighton School of Medicine, Richard L. Egan, B.S.M., M.D., maintains a very active participation in the school.

The Creighton School of Medicine is dedicated to the training of men as healers and confidants of the sick.

This training is carried out through endless hours of lectures, labs, and observation by students of doctors at work. The busy med students usually find themselves with 36 hours per week.

To improve undergraduate training in psychiatry, the United States Public Health Service awarded the school a six-year grant of $173,328 for teaching supplies and equipment for clinical training.

Last summer a Creighton med student was selected to attend a summer fellowship in neurology at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

To broaden the student's medical knowledge, the SAMA sponsored lectures. Dr. Modlin, consultant to the Veteran's and State hospitals in Topeka, and Federal Prison in Springfield, Mo., discussed the status of psychoanalysis. Speaking on medical law in regard to malpractice suits was William Hotz, legal counsel for Omaha Douglas County Medical Society.

Administration Strives for Greater Accomplishment

ASSISTANT DEAN of the Medical School is R. Dale Smith, M.S., Ph.D., who is also chairman of the Department of Anatomy.

JESUIT COUNSELLOR for the School of Medicine is Rev. Vincent L. Decker, S.J., A.B.

While the Faculty Receives Additional Support

An impressive list of doctors and professors head the School of Medicine faculty. More than 275 men lecture and present courses on subjects ranging from pediatrics to otolaryngology.

New faces on the Creighton medical scene this year include Dr. Theodore Prundt, formerly of the Louisiana State University School of Medicine, now chairman of the Department of Pediatrics; Dr. Houghton Elias, assistant professor of surgery; Dr. William Dossel, associate professor in the Department of Anatomy; Dr. Robert Townley and Dr. Charles Magnuson, instructors in medicine, and Dr. John Hyde, instructor in surgery.

Many of the doctors who offer their time are practicing physicians in the Omaha area.

Faculty Deserves Praise

Test-givers, grade-givers, and lecture-givers — these are the unsung heroes of the School of Medicine.

Very little thought is given by the outside world to the professors of medicine.

All thought is with the medical student, struggling both financially and intellectually.

Many of these are doctors with active practices who give up time to teach a class. These are the men who are always ready and willing to counsel and advise the troubled student whether the problem be academic or otherwise.

These are the men who are respected for their dedication to their chosen profession and their strong principles in the teaching of the young men to follow in their footsteps.

Hidden behind the several buildings in the heart of the campus is the home of the legal side of Creighton. The impressive law building houses all the accouterments necessary for the education of the aspiring lawyer. The Moot Court where practice sessions are held reeks with the tradition of an old English court. In the library profound looking law students are always found buried behind several books.

Many long hours of hard work is the manner in which Creighton's law students spend their time. This is evidenced in the fact that all senior students passed their exams this year — a very unique accomplishment. Another proof of their quality was the placement of Creighton's team in Moot Court team regional competition at St. Louis. Senior students John McEvoy and Larry Welsh reached the semi-finals when they were defeated by top-ranking New York University.

Somewhere in this busy day the law student finds time to participate in the sodality and the Student Bar Association. Another activity is the student publication of the Docket, the sounding board for law students.

DEAN OF THE SCHOOL OF LAW is James A. Doyle, Ph.B., LL.M. Dean Doyle is often lending his advice to law students.

Busy Law Students Merit Reward for Their Efforts

OFTEN REFERRED TO AS the "lawyer's lawyer", Louis J. Tepoel, A.M., LL.B., LL.D., is the Dean Emeritus of the Law School.

Faculty Teaches Ideals

The seventeen Creighton Law School professors find in their teaching a special goal. This aim is to impart to 128 registered law students a love to carry out the highest ideals set down by the bar.

Often a law professor will be found sitting in his office offering advice and counsel to a worried student.

MOOT COURT is the scene for many interesting lectures on the finer points of law.

Classroom lectures and practical application in the clinic are the nucleus of dental training. Research, in library and laboratory, are fundamentals of this training. Years of study and practice find their reward on Graduation when the student adds "D.D.S." to his name.

A new course in the Dental School is the Senior Seminar. Each week, an unusual case is discussed by faculty representatives from the different departments, as students listen and learn.

Each dentistry student spends two weeks out of the year working in a local hospital, learning the techniques and procedures of medicine as well as dentistry.

The Dental School progresses with the modern trends of science. New processes are developed, and techniques are revised as needed.

After four years of study and labor, the senior is faced with his most grueling ordeal, that of comprehensive exams and State Board examinations. However, there is a preparation for the students. "Mock Boards" are given as a sneak preview of what is to come.

DEAN OF THE SCHOOL OF DENTISTRY is Benjamin L. Lynch, B.S.D., D.D.S., A.M., M.S.D., a friendly advisor to the students.

Faculty Trains Students

The School of Dentistry, under the leadership of Dean Benjamin L. Lynch, boasts a faculty of qualified teachers and lecturers, who devote their time to the training of future dentists.

Four faculty members, Drs. Donahoe, Boyne, Sobolick, and Schimmel have retired from administrative duties, but are still active as teachers. Dr. G. P. Ivancie, Visiting Lecturer in Periodontia, has begun a research program in Periodonture.

AT HIS DESK, completing some paper work, is Raymond W. Shaddy, D.D.S., who is Director of the Department of Operative Dentistry.

INSPECTING the work of these two dent students is Doctor Schemel, Professor of Diagnosis at the School of Dentistry.

Learning the art of mixing prescriptions is just part of the training for Pharmacy students. After long hours of practice and years of study, the aspiring pharmacists are ready to begin their chosen profession.

The School of Pharmacy provides the technical training necessary, and also guides the individual by giving him a well-founded preview of his professional future.

A new library for the School of Pharmacy augments the program of research. Volumes have been transferred to a building across from the school building.

The highlight of the school year is the picnic, banquet, and dance of Pharmacy Day. Also important to the students is the Annual Seminar for pharmacists of the area.

A club was inaugurated this year to provide a better liaison between pre-Pharmacy and Pharmacy students.

The annual junket found Juniors and Seniors touring the Eli Lilly & Co. Laboratories in Chicago, Illinois, and the Abbot Laboratories of Indianapolis, Indiana.

DEAN OF THE SCHOOL OF PHARMACY is Salvatore J. Greco, B.S.PH., Ph.D., who has a great interest in all the School's activities.

Excellence Is Maintained

Under the direction and guidance of Dr. Salvatore J. Greco, Dean of the School of Pharmacy, the school continues its excellent record of training qualified pharmacists. Aided by a staff of competent teachers and lecturers, the Dean and faculty lead the 86 students of the school toward their goal.

A new faculty member this year is Dr. Sayed Ahsan, Professor of Pharmacy. Dr. Ahsan teaches a new course in physical pharmacy.

A grant of $5000 from the Smith, Kline, and French Foundation provided the faculty and students with more research equipment.

In the past year, the School of Pharmacy was retained on the list of colleges in the American Pharmaceutical Council.

THE BATTLE CRY of the Creighton Bluejays was "Beat the Coyotes." This was the theme of the Pharmacy School's unique float, which was runner-up in the large float division.

Research is the byword of graduate students seeking a degree to specialize in a particular field. The Graduate School becomes a training center for leaders and teachers.

The primary purpose of the Graduate School is to form teachers for all levels of education. A graduate student has the opportunity of earning a teaching fellowship in his field, thus being able to teach lower division courses while working toward a degree.

But, research being the backbone of graduate studies, Creighton graduate students will find an added incentive in their labor. The new library will boast features that will make this otherwise exhausting task more than interesting. Micro-cards and microfilms will be available, as well as photostat reproductions of important documents. Displays of modern learned journals, with current issues will help to take the search out of research.

The Creighton Administration has realized the need for a strong Graduate School, and has built within the University, one that will satisfy the needs of its students.

DEAN OF THE GRADUATE SCHOOL, Rev. Richard Harrington, S.J., A.M., S.T.B., Ph.D., takes part actively in the School's functions.

The Graduate School Enables Specialization

THE DEAN'S SECRETARY is a big help and a friendly receptionist to graduate students that wander into Father's office.

RELATING to his eager group of graduate students the knowledge which he has learned through experience, is Dr. Edward Corbett.

ARE THESE STUDENTS? Yes, they are all graduate students, who are English teachers when they are not in class working on their masters degrees.

A TEACHING FELLOW, Mr. Gale K. Larson, collects the written assignments from one of his freshmen English classes.

CAVITIES or not, that is the question which Robert Schenk is trying to find out with the help of a brand new type of X-ray machine. The very relaxed and confident patient is junior Ron Santoro.

A TRUSTING WOMAN registers to have her teeth checked. This typical scene occurs almost every day in the Dental Building.

Dental Clinic Aids Students and Benefits Many

To look at a gleaming white tooth, one would not readily realize the extensive training that is part of a dentist's life. But, to walk into the Dental Clinic, amid the tools of dentistry, one soon acknowledges the complicated art of dental training.

The clinic, under the direction and supervision of Dr. John J. Butkus, provides a training ground for future dentists. First and second year students spend their time in the classroom, but third and fourth year "dent" students are busy in the clinic.

A CALM, COOL and collected patient awaits the onslaught of dental students, Butch Kilpatrick and Tony Riskovich, under the carefully trained eye of Faculty Advisor, Doctor Robert Schemel.

THIS PATIENT doesn't appear to be too alarmed at the prospect of losing one of her lower molar teeth, as Dr. Joe McMahon and his assistant Freda Kahn prepare for the surgical work involved.

25,000 Profit from University's Medical Clinic

WORKING VERY DILIGENTLY are the laboratory technologists who are employed at the Medical School Clinic. They can almost always be found working in the lab around the corner from the entrance.

Approximately 60 senior medical students and 25,000 patients profit annually from the School of Medicine's clinic located on 14th and Davenport Streets. Directing the clinic is Dr. Harle V. Barrett, and Clifford D. Snyder is assistant director. Patients come from all over Omaha as well as from student ranks.

The medical students are divided into two groups, each group doing clinical work for one semester. In addition to medical service, the clinic also has departments for psychiatry, cancer, pediatrics, x-ray, rehabilitation in arthritis and other diseases.

In the clinic, students are required to work regularly scheduled periods besides taking courses in surgery, pediatrics, radiology, obstetrics and gynecology, medical ethics, public health, and legal and economic medicine. Medical students receive their training from more than 275 full and part-time instructors.

ONE OF THE MANY senior medical students that work in the School of Medicine's Clinic is waiting for his patient, one of many he has greeted today.

WHILE WAITING for his next patient to come into the emergency room, Doctor John Taylor looks over the patient's medical history at the Medical Clinic.

WAITING FOR HIS PRESCRIPTION is one of the people who has already made use of the medical benefits offered by the Medical School Clinic.

Future Med Techs Descend Hilltop for Hospitals

To keep pace with the growing demand for medical technologists, Creighton grants a bachelor of science degree to coeds who complete requirements during three years on the Hilltop and one year at an approved hospital.

Coads enrolled in the program this year got a taste of "learning by doing" at St. Joseph's, Clarkson, and Mercy hospitals.

Under the guidance of graduate technicians, the students study nine different fields dealing with technology.

In addition to the practical study in the lab, the "med techs" attend weekly lectures during which they learn the theory of lab work.

As the hospitals accept only a limited number of trainees, the prospective technologists must register months in advance in order to be appointed to the hospital of their choice.

Upon completing the program graduates are qualified to fill positions in nearly any hospital.

WHAT IS ON THE SLIDE? Jayne Reinert is checking to find out while Conetta Piccolo and Sister Mary Charlotte look on and hope that a good slide has been made so that they can find out.

COMPLETING THE EXPERIMENT, as other Med techs watch attentively, is Sandra Jones, who hopes that this test has been successful.

IN ORDER TO TIME their experiment Sarah Paul is getting ready to set the clock, while Jayne Reinert starts to prepare the slides.

THOSE WAITING for instructions from Sister Mary Charlotte are Jayne Reinert, Janie Hoban, Sandy Jones, Teddy Lechner, Marian Schultz, Maureen Entringer, Mary Alice Nemes and Connie Piccolo.

MEMBERS OF THE CLASS at the Christ Child Center proudly display their masterpieces. The smiles on the faces of Arts junior Cass Schreier, the teacher, and the children indicate it was fun.

DESIGNING, PREPARING, AND PUTTING up bulletin boards that are of interest to the children at the Christ Child Center is another one of the jobs given to Cass Schreier, who is getting help.

Social Work Attracts Creighton Students to Centers

Several Creighton students have discovered a rewarding past-time — social work at the Christ Child Centers of Omaha. Affiliated with United Community Services, these centers provide clubs, classes, and gym for all ages, creeds, and races. Thus, Hilltoppers find opportunities to plan, instruct, and supervise varied activities for the children.

SUPERVISING, Demonstrating the techniques of basketball, and acting as referee are all a part of Dave Frenzer's work at the Center.

"THIS WON'T HURT in the slightest", comes the reassuring voice of the charming nurse to the question posed by the donor.

Donors Lend Arms, Not Hand

They were out for Hilltoppers' blood Nov. 21-22 when the Red Cross Bloodmobile visited the campus. A miniature blood center was set up in the Student Center's lower level, and more than 100 students rolled up their sleeves to comply with the Red Cross's annual request. Faculty, as well as students, were on hand to lend an arm.

The donors' reward; coffee and rolls, and the opportunity to help a worthy cause. Creighton's staff and students also donate blood at the regional center at various times during the year.

RED TAPE FOR RED BLOOD causes the bearded Cage Johnson to pause and stare at the many forms being typed by the nurse.

FOLLOWING THE ORDEAL, the Red Cross comes to the rescue and serves coffee and donuts in the Student Center to Fran Biegelmeier, and Wes Wolfe.

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST are revealed as Ed "Whitey" Vandermark and Ann Bergschneider capture the titles of Mr. Ugly and Miss Cutie.

Nickel votes pass $400 mark; elect "Cutie", "Ugly"

A BEWILDERED Creighton student looks on and wonders which of these two is the FBI agent, but these are two of the Miss Cutie-Mr. Ugly contestants, Danny Barmetter and Marlene Scheuring.

A pert, brown-haired journalism major copped this year's Miss Cutie title, and honors for being the campus' ugliest man went to a Business Administration senior.

Arts junior Ann Bergschneider and accounting major Ed (Whitey) Vandermark were dubbed Cutie and Ugly Oct. 21 at the Community Service Dance sponsored by the Student Board of Governors.

Votes which sold at a nickel each elected the duo and netted $478.50 for the United Community Service Fund.

University in Action

"EMOTIONAL GROWTH" was the subject of the lecture given by Francis J. Braceland, M.D., Professor of Psychiatry at Yale University School of Medicine, and Psychiatrist-in-Chief of the Institute of Living, Hartford, Connecticut.

Lectures Provide

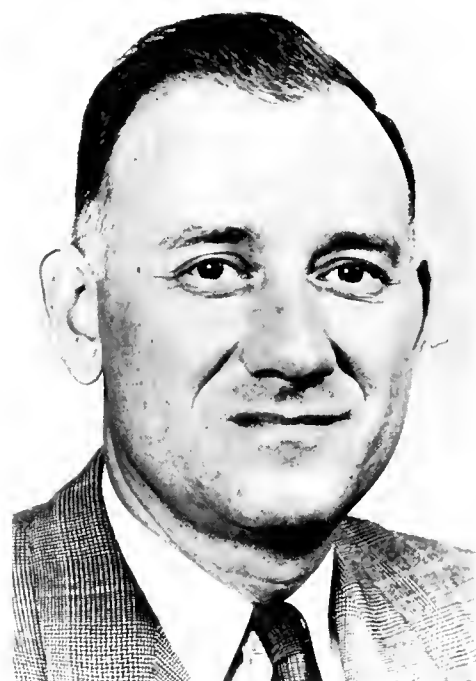

GUEST SPEAKER, Dr. Ross W. Raymond Livingston, Professor of History and Curator of British Documents at the State University of Iowa, used as his topic, "Responsible Government."

THE AQUINAS LECTURE featured Dr. Vincent E. Smith, Director of the Philosophy of Science Institute of St. John's University. Shown with Dr. Smith, (right), are Fr. Kelley and Fr. Renard.

The Visiting Scholar Lecture Series is intended primarily for the students and faculty of the seven schools of the University. It is the hope of the Series Committee that these lectures will open up new vistas of interest and exploration for some, and enlarge the experience of others in important areas of human thought. In an era of specialization, the ideal of a truly liberal training in the University may be obscured. The Visiting Scholar Lectures are designed to help make that ideal a living reality. During the 1960-61 school year, the lectures have been given by scholars in the fields of philosophy, psychiatry, political science, meteorology, fine arts, biology, sociology, and theology.

Students and faculty members assembled in the Student Center for the series of lectures that formed an important part of the year.

"MODERN Climatology: New Methods for an Old Science" was the topic of a lecture by Dr. Wayne L. Decker, Associate Professor of Climatology at the University of Missouri.

PSYCHOANALYSIS as a method of treatment, a tool for research, and a theory of human psychology was the subject of the speech given by Dr. Herbert C. Modlin to the Creighton S.A.M.A.

OMAHA LAWYER, William H. Holtz, Jr., addresses the Creighton branch of the Student American Medical Association. The topic of his lecture was the "Legal Aspects of Medicine."

Students With an Opportunity to Learn by Listening

In keeping with the academic goals of a University, Creighton sponsors various lectures to stimulate interest in world events as well as scholarly subjects. Among these organizations are the Fine Arts Club and the Creighton branch of the S.A.M.A.

The "Image of Man" series of lectures probed history and literature to discover the stable nature of man through the ages.

Space medicine, psychoanalysis, and legal aspects of medicine were a few of the topics of the S.A.M.A. lectures.

These lectures, and others given through the University, helped to bring students and faculty to a better understanding of many topics of current and professional interest.

FACULTY MEMBER, Leo V. Jacks, Ph.D., participated in the "Image of Ancient Man" series of lectures, sponsored by the Fine Arts Club. Dr. Jacks spoke on the man of ancient Greece and Rome.

KEY SPEAKERS in the "Image of Man" lecture series were Rev. John J. Join, S. J., and Leo V. Jacks, Ph.D. Rev. Paul F. Smith, S. J., (center) is the faculty moderator of the Fine Arts Club.

Pills, Diagnosis, Shots, and Physical Examinations . . .

HAVING TROUBLE making ends meet, Nurse Marlene Tully measures a prospective patient in the Student Health Service office.

MAKING AN APPOINTMENT to see the doctor is one of the many Creighton students who come in for medical assistance.

RECEIVING HELP from Miss Marlene Tully, R.N., and Doctor Edward Slavik is Arts freshman Pete Quintero.

Student Health Service Keeps Hilltoppers Hardy

Through the year the doors of the Student Health Service office remained open five days a week giving medical aid to the ailing Creightonians who came in need of help.

Two important projects of the medical center this year were giving some 780 physical examinations to the school's newly enrolled freshmen and administering flu shots to approximately 500 Hilltoppers. Twice during the school year the center offered flu shots, in the fall and later in the winter.

The small staff, consisting of Miss Marlene Tully, R.N., and Dr. Edward R. Slavik, is kept busy prescribing pills for colds, diagnosing flu cases, administering shots, and giving physical examinations throughout the year.

COULD BE BAD TONSILS. Examining Pete Quintero's throat is Dr. Slavik. This is something that the Doctor does often.

THE NEEDLE isn't too big, but it's not small enough to be forgotten by Jim Baker when in the hands of Miss Tully.

DURING THE DAY many students come in to see the Doctor. Here Dr. Slavik is examining one of his patients.

LOOKING THROUGH newspaper articles on the university are secretaries of University Relations, Kay Carroll and Alice Blankenau.

CHECKING OVER the latest Alumnus magazine is LeAnn Iwan who works for one of the divisions of University Relations.

Alumni Relations, Public Relations, and Department

THE HOME of University Relations is this building on California Street just south of the Law School Building.

University Relations is an important requirement for continually good functioning of the University. Creighton Alumni must be kept informed of the university's progress and activities. The general public should be acquainted with the achievements of the school. And the university should be continually moving to greater goals.

These needs are handled by the three divisions of University Relations: Alumni Relations, Public Relations, and the Department of Development.

The Department of Alumni Relations is headed by Bernard Conway. Under Mr. Conway's direction the department keeps Creighton alumni informed. This is accomplished mainly through the alumni magazine sent out monthly to the one-time Creighton students.

Director of Public Relations is Robert Reilly. His department keeps Creighton University constantly before the eye of the public. They accomplish this through periodical news releases on sports and general activities.

The Department of Development, which at the present time has no director, is concerned with the growth and progress of the University.

DIRECTOR of the Department of Alumni Relations, Bernard J. Conway instructs secretary Key Carroll how to revise his letter.

of Development Promote Good University Relations

PICTURES are essential to the Department of Public Relations. Taking the pictures of various University events is Harry Dolphin.

CORRESPONDENCE is important in Public Relations. Robert T. Reilly, department director, dictates a letter to Cathy Carroll.

Students Receive Excellent Religious Opportunities

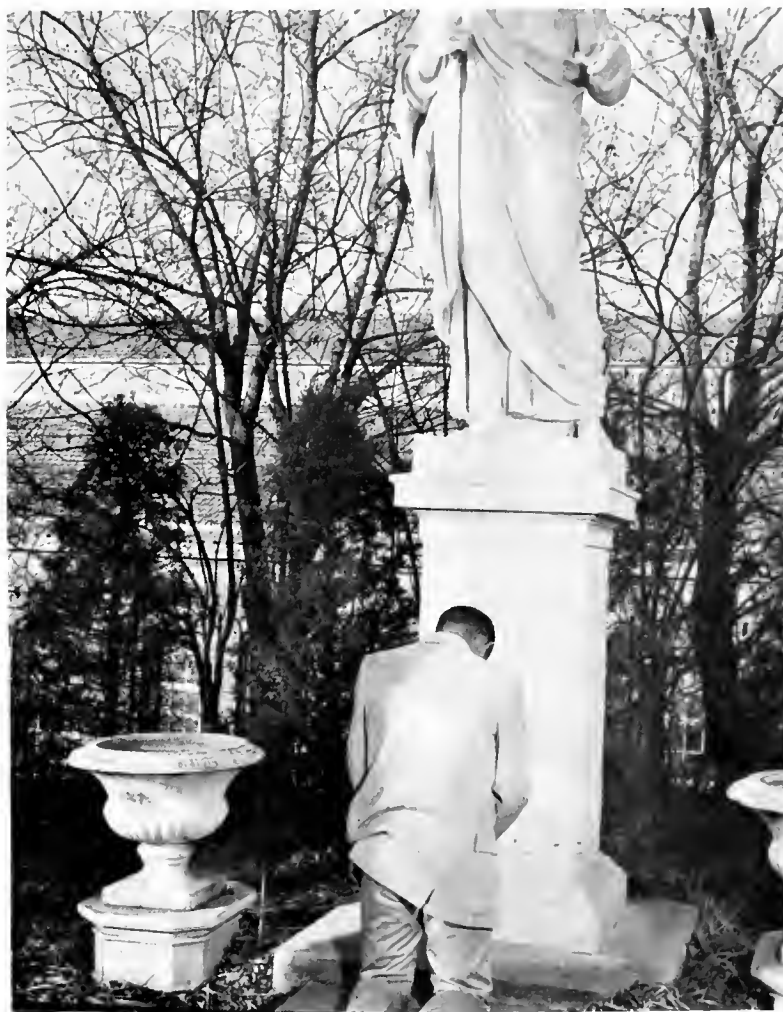

STRESSING THE VALUE of God in everyday life, Father Purcell aids retreatants in their introspection by presenting the principles of the Ignatian retreat.

Creighton students are given ample opportunity to develop the spiritual as well as the scholastic.

Student Mass on Tuesday, Thursday, or Friday and the annual retreat are only a part of this life. The availability of St. John's Church provides an excellent chance for daily Mass and Communion and frequent confession.

EVERY POSSIBLE AID including frequent opportunities for confession, personal conferences and advice is offered to those making their annual retreat.

PAUSING FOR A MOMENT, a retreatant reflects on the Ignatian principle that man was made to know, love, and serve God and by this means to save his soul.

DURING RETREAT, a student is given the chance to withdraw in quiet. It is a good time to become aware of the value of virtue, both moral and intellectual.

TYPING NOTES for Father Costelloe is just one of the many jobs of efficient secretary, Elaine Grebe.

Student Workers Are Busy around the Campus

The student worker is a vital part of the smooth functioning of the University. Students have ample opportunity to find part-time jobs to financially supplement their education.

When meal time comes around, student workers are on hand to see that the endless food lines are served quickly and efficiently.

Students are employed as secretaries, switch-board operators, receptionists, lab workers, library assistants, and dorm proctors.

PREPARING to penetrate the general confusion of the Student Center with a vital announcement is student worker, Pat Greer.

THE TYPING DUO of Eileen and Jeanne Redetzke provides speed and efficiency for the Education Department.

Sodalities

MODERATOR of the Sodality Union is Rev. Lawrence W. Flanagan, S.J.

PRESIDENT of the Sodality Union is Arts senior John Rakowski.

PRESIDENT:
VICE-PRESIDENT:
SECRETARY:
TREASURER:
MODERATOR:

John Rakowski
James Schultz
Mary Ann Belford
David Frenzer
Rev. Lawrence W.
Flanagan, S.J.

The Sodality Union consists of representatives from twelve Omaha Sodalities. The representatives come not only from the seven sodalities here on campus, but they come from St. Catherine's, St. Joseph's, Duchesne and St. Mary's.

The Sodality Union's main purpose is to maintain harmony and co-operation among the sodalities in Omaha and to further the cause of the sodality.

One of the Union's annual events is the Sodality Congress held in the fall. This year the congress was held at Duchesne.

The annual Book Fair given by the Union has this year been replaced by a newly established workshop. The workshop is designed to help the sodalities solve the problems that they incur during the year.

Presiding over the meetings is John Rakowski. He is assisted by Vice-President James Schultz, Secretary Mary Ann Belford, and Treasurer Dave Frenzer.

Moderator of the Sodality Union is Rev. Lawrence Flanagan, S.J.

Harmony Is Maintained Through Sodality Union

SODALITY UNION MEMBERS on campus are: Front row: Rev. L. Flanagan, S. J., J. Rakowski, Prefect; S. Schepers, M. Belford, J. Lovchik, T. Woerth, D. Frenzer. Second row: T. Pesek, C. Loos, T. Rouse, R. Nollette, R. Riley.

Douda M. Belford, Vice-Pref.; M. McDermott, S. Schepers. Third row: R. Bendon, M. Gaughen, P. Schwee, K. Dante.

Co-ed Sodalist Work Toward a Threefold Goal

After a year of candidateship, a co-ed aspiring to the sodality way of life is officially received into the Co-ed Sodality. She dedicates herself to the Blessed Virgin Mary and learns to live the sodality motto, "To Jesus through Mary."

During their meetings, the Sodalists discuss topics of interest concerned with carrying out the threefold purpose of the Sodality: personal sanctification, defense of the Church, and sanctification of others.

Prefect of the Co-ed Sodality is Judy Lovchik, who is given helpful guidance from the Moderator, Rev. Raymond J. Bishop, S.J.

MORE CO-ED SODALITY MEMBERS are: Front row: M. Petersen, C. Sundall, G. Connor, A. Wegner, M. Reilly, A. Smith. Second row: C.

Varnes, C. Gallagher, B. Michael, M. Novak, C. Burns, J. Bates. Third row: M. Pape, M. Gallee, M. Meister, R. Malnick, M. Dugan, R. Buckey.

Arts Sodality Strives for Personal Sanctification

Personal sanctification is the goal of the Men's Arts Sodality. To achieve this aim, members individually perform "daily exercises of meditation and prayer."

A promotional aspect of this organization is their initiation of the Missa Recitata at student Masses this year.

Included as an annual activity is the sending of a delegation to the Summer School of Catholic Action.

ADDITIONAL MEMBERS OF THE MEN'S ARTS SODALITY are: Front row: Rev. L. Flanagan, S.J., Director; J. Vacanti, T. German, J. Rakowski, D. Olive, T. Woerth, Vice-Pref.; R. Kozal, T. Collison. Second Row: J. Rapier, P. Brookhouser, T. Pesek, Perfect; J. Kelly, J. Payne, L. Heck. Third row: D. Duffy, P. McGee, R. Winters, T. Dagdale, D. Shane. Fourth row: Q. Ryan, A. Doss, J. McGill, T. Rouse, Treas.; V. Byrne, A. Konopka, Sec.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION SODALITY MEMBERS are:

Bus. Ad. and Dental Sodalities Guide Members

For the Dental Sodality, spirituality must be directed toward giving a good example as a Catholic in the field of dentistry. Aiding the sodalists to develop this kind of spiritual life is moderator, Rev. Edmund Stumpf, S.J.

The aim of the Business Administration Sodality is to teach its members to live the Sodality way of life out in the Business world.

The sodalists are guided in this endeavor by the moderator, Rev. Francis J. Moriarty, S.J.

MEMBERS OF THE DENTAL SODALITY are: Front row: L. Showers, R. Bertagnolli, R. Schenk, E. Sandoval, M. Dvorak, T. Dermody, Rev. E. Stumpf, S.J., Moderator. Second row: J. Buresh, V. Scallon, J. Bolamperti, J. Anderson, J. McCarthy, H. Chang, L. Polak, J. Kelly.

Third row: H. Mayerhofer, J. Smith, J. Mullane, D. Volmer, Vice-Pref. J. Gohrick, D. Brenny, F. Fernandez. Fourth row: R. Gosney, G. Morton, E. Sterba, D. Vagt, W. Chee, G. Mendlik, J. Drahota.

MEDICAL SODALITY MEMBERS are: Front row: D. Burkley, B. Hamilton, C. Farrell, Vice-Pref.; C. Loos, Prefect; J. Schultz, Sec.-Treas.; Rev. V. Decker, S.J., Moderator; J. Gowney. Second row: J. Kilbride, J. Galles, J. McGill, H. Hand, L. Anastasi, M. Nespole, R. Marco. Third row: D. Schroeder, G. Basque, J. Tarsney, A. Nespole.

MEMBERS OF THE PHARMACY SODALITY are: Front row: Rev. V. Decker, S.J., Moderator; T. Thomas, Sec.-Treas.; J. Hladik, Vice-Pref. Second row: D. Factor, N. Steidler, M. Wolpert, Ron Smet, Prefect. Third row: B. Pfaff, J. Burton, P. Conway. Fourth row: M. Casey, J. DuBe, S. Essien. Fifth row: P. Hanna, J. Kilnowski, B. Augustine.

The School of Pharmacy Sodality features at its weekly meetings lectures by the Rev. Vincent Decker, S.J. Talks by the moderator deal with facets of individual spiritual formation.

The 17-member group traditionally collects and mounts for exhibition drugs from different medical clinics.

Prefect Ronald Smet presides over business meetings. He is assisted by Vice-prefect Judy Hladik and Secretary-treasurer Tom Thomas.

The main purpose of the Sodality of the School of Medicine is to combine the members' spiritual life with academic activities.

Affiliated with the Sodality Union, the Medical Sodalists participated in that group's congress in mid-November.

Meeting every Thursday, organization activities are directed by Prefect Charles Loos. He is assisted by Vice-prefect Charles Farrell and Secretary-treasurer James Schultz.

Sodalities Combine Spiritual and Academic Life

The highlight of the Law Sodality year was the annual closed retreat for the School of Law at St. Columbans in Bellevue.

The beginning barristers in the Sodality this year number 20, and are under the direction of Prefect Robert Riley, Moderator for this group is Father LeRoy Endres, S.J., Jesuit Counsellor for the School of Law.

The Law Sodality program was broken into three segments: educational, spiritual, and social. A Committee that formulated projects for the organization was in charge of each segment.

LAW SODALITY MEMBERS are: Front row: Rev. L. Endres, S.J., Mod.; M. Dugan, Vice-Pref.; R. Riley, Prefect; M. LaFrance. Second row: J. Monahan, J. Mulqueen, K. Hey, M. Jackson. Third row: B. The year's feature for the Chess Club was its exhibition in the Hobby-Rama at the City Auditorium during the fall. Moderator Donald Johnson helped set a new world record by winning 495 of 500 games played during the exhibition.

An intracub round robin tournament helped sustain interest through the year.

Check! Pass and Peace

In its fourth year, the comparatively new Bluejay Bridge Club teaches its members an appreciation of one of the world's most popular card games. The "Creighton Cardsharks" meet every Friday night and Sunday afternoon.

Again this year the club participated in the annual Inter-Collegiate Campus Bridge Tournament.

BRIDGE CLUB MEMBERS are: Front row: J. Schindler, A. Smith, G. Kilibarda, D. Helget, Sec., K. Dante. Second row: R. Settqast, M. Halbur, K. Krebsbach, L. Geisler.

Highlighting the International Relations Club's year was the National Convention of its organization, held this spring at Midland College in Fremont, Nebraska.

The ten-year-old Creighton chapter meets every third week to hold panel discussions on current national affairs and American foreign policy. The discussions are often complemented by topical movies, slides or guest speakers from the university faculty or other occupations.

In existence only a year and a half, the Spanish club now boasts a membership of 23.

Meeting every three weeks, the club members learned and sang Spanish songs, and essayed bravely to learn Spanish dances. Guest speakers lectured in Spanish at the meetings.

A pinta party at Christmas and spanish feasts throughout the year were included on the agenda.

The club undertook a novel project this year, the establishment of a Student Center display booth to exhibit different Spanish articles and examples of the culture of Spain.

Language Club Endeavors to Learn Foreign Customs

The French Club intends to give its members a deeper insight into French culture, customs, and lore.

This year the club obtained lecturers from a national French organization with which one of its members is associated.

Films, dances, and plays and skits written by club members in French served to liven the club's tri-weekly meetings.

The university's 40 French patrons enjoyed a fall Bingo party at which the numbers, letters, and even the prizes were French. A Christmas party, a picnic, and an all-school spring dance rounded out the social schedule.

FRENCH CLUB MEMBERS are: Front row: S. Wexler, Mod., A. Gish, G. Boos, D. Labarre, K. Dempsey, V-Pres., J. Schindler, J. Groark, M. Gilbert, A. Smith. Second row: K. Larson, K. O'Connell, D. Balkovetz,

The Man Without a Country has a parallel on campus — the Creighton Players — the Troupe Without a Playhouse.

Since the auditorium was razed in the summer of 1959 to make way for the new Alumni Memorial Library, the group has had no place to stage its productions.

Last year's experiments at the Ames Theater and other locations proved unsatisfactory. Hence, until a new playhouse is found, the organization which was founded in 1924 as the Mask and Wig will exist in name alone.

Hilltop Players On Ice as Choir Warms Hearts

A solid background of choral music during the Student Masses each week identifies the presence of the Creighton University Choir. Thus the choir carries on its tradition of providing music for student spiritual functions.

Originating as a Men's Sodality choral group in Creighton's early years, the coed faction was soon induced to form a mixed chorus.

In deference to progress and modern times, the group occasionally diverged from the liturgical to present concerts during the Christmas and Lenten seasons. In addition, Harry Langdon's vocalists also appeared at other university and civic functions throughout the year.

Award and Bill Bluejay

The Blue Jay Pep Club took a big step forward this year with the establishment of a standing committee devoted to the problem of maintaining an high degree of school spirit.

In their effort to keep spirit at a high pitch, the club has initiated the Blue Jay Spirit Award, to be given annually to the student who displays in his conduct an interest and enthusiasm in the University and its functions and does the most to stimulate pride in his school.

The first award was presented during Homecoming Week to Mary Cain.

The Club introduced a new mascot, a gigantic replica of Bill Bluejay, for use at games and pep rallies. Bluejay heads were also posted at the corners of the Pep Club section at games.

Under the capable leadership of president Tim Rouse, the 120-member organization sponsored a number of successful social functions.

The fall dance was well attended, and the ever-popular Club Internationale played to a Standing Room Only Crowd in the Student Center. The Club planned and put over the feverish snake dance and rally during Homecoming Week.

A well-guarded motto, "It's only money," suggests a solvency of which few other campus organizations can boast.

Politicians Spark Campus During Election Year

Richard Nixon lost the November election through no fault of the Creighton Young Republicans.

This 25-member, rejuvenated club canvassed an Iowa precinct for voter registration, helped swell the crowd that met Nixon at Eppley Field, and competed gamely during Political Education Week.

The Young Democrats worked hard for the election of John Kennedy — and they rejoiced at his victory.

These fledgling liberals helped with voter registration, entered the Homecoming parade, joined in Political Education Week, and gently rubbed salt into the wounds of their vanquished rivals.

Legal Group Stresses Obligations, Opportunities

The legal tyros of the Student Bar Association aim to develop a consciousness of their obligations and opportunities as lawyers.

Toward this end, they scheduled monthly luncheons at which a local attorney gave his views on the matters of common interests.

This year the traditional association publication, The Post, was replaced by a more streamlined work, The Docket.

The group handled the annual Law Day in the spring, promoted Homecoming in the Law School, and maintained a student lounge in the law building.

Coeds Promote Interest

Dear Mother: Tonight the 35 members of the Commerce Coeds chomped pizza and chewed the fat about economic issues. Homecoming week we all pitched in for old C.U., decorating cars and helping with the Homecoming election in the Bus Ad school. At tonight's meeting we laid plans for a mammoth steak fry this spring.

The Creighton Collegiate Nurses Club was organized this year to promote interest in Creighton's four-year nursing program. Members must be enrolled in the university's quadrennial program.

Affiliation with the student Nurses of Nebraska and the nation followed the opening of classes.

The club's 50 members enjoyed Christmas caroling, a Communion Breakfast, and assisted with physical examinations during Welcome Week.

Crack! The ear-piercing reports from the rifle range may not indicate a rifle team match. They may mean that the members of the Women's Recreation Association are indulging in their newest pastime, a female firing squad.

The three-year-old, 50-member WRA this year participated in basketball, volleyball, and swimming during its scheduled gymnasium period.

Since its inception in 1952, the Crei-Vets club has become an integral part of campus life for veterans with at least two years active duty.

This year the Crei-Vets assisted with the two successful blood drives, held their annual smoker for new members in the fall and their traditional dinner-dance in the spring.

Naturally, in this election year, no Crei-Vet was to be seen without a Kennedy or Nixon button.

MORE CWRA MEMBERS are: Front row: T. Foster, G. Buerman, Pres.; J. Palmer, J. Kurtz, Treas.; R. Barrett. Second row: D. Steinkamp, C. Schon, J. Nohr, K. Quinn.

The Fine Arts Club aims to promote culture on the Creighton campus. Serving this end is the annual Fine Arts Festival, which was this year divided into a Fine Arts Week each semester.

Semi-monthly tours of the Joslyn Art Museum sponsored by the organization stressed art's medieval period to all interested students.

Throughout the year other projects effected by the club's 15 members included chamber music concerts at Joslyn, a four-part lecture series on "The Image of Man," and a sequence of educational films on Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

Hawaiians, Fine Arts Club Contribute to Campus

From their first Omaha winter when the snow and cold tingles their ears to the day they leave the campus, Hui O'Hawaii provides a social outlet for the gregarious "Pineapples."

For the members of Hui, Hawaiian Night in the spring was "the" night of the year. The year-round aura of blase respectability was shed, and the Student Center dining room became another Island, complete with palm trees, leis, and hula dancers. Before the evening was over, the members proved that strains from Oahu and Mauna Loa can be just as fetching as Newport Jazz or Jamaican Calypso.

The Hui was represented in the intramural program by the Kahuna and the Menehunes.

ACTIVE PARTICIPANTS IN THE HAWAIIAN CLUB are: Front row: F. Young, W. Ueno, V-Pres.; R. Hotta, H. Chang, W. Leong. Second row: P. Kosick, D. Quon, W. Chang, Pres.; C. Lum, B. Dorwart. Third

"Resolved, that the . . ." rings out a cultured voice belonging to one of 15 members of the Jaytalkers, the Creighton forensic association.

The Jaytalkers this year introduced a Speaker's Bureau, which provided speakers to any organization on any topic.

The organization again sponsored the McShane Speech Contest, their annual fall dance, and an entry in the Homecoming parade.

During the past year, the members copped trophies in tournaments at Nebraska Wesleyan, Omaha University, and Loyola of Chicago.

Jaytalkers Cop Awards; Arts Council Revived

After a stumbling start three years ago, the Arts Council finally began to realize its leadership potential this year.

Composed of the class officers in the College of Arts and Sciences, the Council's purpose is to promote co-ordination among the classes of the Arts School, and to a lesser degree, to improve existing conditions on the social level.

The Council sponsored an all-university dance in early February at which a freshman queen was crowned. This event took the place of the Hi-C dance.

The organization also had charge of the Arts Picnic on Picnic Day in the spring.

MEMBERS OF THE ARTS COUNCIL are: Front row: Fr. McKenny, Mod.; T. Zimmerman, B. Douda, M. Lovitt, S. Lepo, D. Helget, Sec.; B. Cianciaruso, Treas. Second row: J. Lenahan, T. George, J. Robben,

A select group of mathematical wizards mourned the untimely passing last fall of the head wizard, moderator Morris Dansky.

After Dansky's death, activity in the club was somewhat decelerated. Math production continued, but on a more limited scale.

The Math Club studied the interesting and unusual phases of this precise science. A premium is naturally placed on mental dexterity.

Founded on the Creighton campus in 1955, this easy-going group consists of 11 members. The year's principal topic of discussion was the purchase of a small computer.

MATH CLUB MEMBERS are: Front row: J. Gleason, Pres.; A. Wegner, A. Garvey, J. Brady. Second row: R. Jeffries, F. Barta, W. Jones.

Wizards Mourn While Tutor Roll Hits Alltime High

Aspirants to the National Pedagogical Society prepare for this high station by joining the Student National Education Association. Exclusively for Education majors and minors, membership in the organization is at an all-time high.

The students meet monthly 'mid piles of outdated NEA Journals. They discuss facets of the teaching profession and the problems faced by those who have already entered its underpaid ranks.

The three-year-old group appropriated the Fall State Convention of the SNEA for Creighton in October.

Major social events include two receptions presented by the Creighton chapter to honor the active teachers who have co-operated with the club by assisting the members in practice teaching under actual classroom conditions.

The American Chemical Society, a student affiliate of the National American Chemical Society, is a showcase for the individual accomplishments of Creighton chemistry majors.

As an incentive to the industry of future members, the organization annually presents the "Outstanding Chemistry Student" award to the two top inorganic chemists. Dave Ploth and Dean Tuma this year saw the honor crystallize.

Students hear speakers from among their own ranks and scientists from the Omaha area at monthly meetings. Members may also attend gatherings of the national society.

Sciences Attract Students

Enthusiasm for biology qualifies one to join the Pasteur Club, one of the most popular on the Hilltop.

Two SAC officers explained at a fall meeting "Project Mercury," the program to put a man into space. The lecture circuit is a two-way street, however, as a Pasteur Club demonstration team invaded local high schools to show proper dissection techniques.

Plans are on the Bunsen burner for a dinner dance and the annual picnic.

Fellowships Aid the Cloth

Foreign missionaries are not without support on the home front. The supporters? The dozen members of Creighton's Xavier Forum.

At monthly meetings, Forumites heard various guests speak on the mission field, notably a visiting bishop from British Honduras.

At Christmas time Forum members sent 50 letters to missionaries around the world. A formal dinner and spring picnic topped the social plans.

A college lad's fumbling hand gropes for his alarm clock in the early morning dark. Soon the same lad, frocked, is serving Mass at St. John's.

Such is the lot of the 40 Kingsmen. They accept it readily, for theirs is an organization founded this year to provide servers for the 60-some Jesuits who celebrate the Mass daily.

To qualify for membership, Kingsmen aspirants must attend monthly meetings, instruct another prospective acolyte, and serve Mass once a week.

Military

THE JOB OF CHECKING AND RECHECKING the neverending stress of registration forms falls upon Master Sergeant Joseph S. Henderson, Captain Robert W. Welsh, and the secretary, Margret D. Ryan.

CLASS PREPARATIONS for this trio involves repairing a faculty movie projector. They are Master Sergeant Rallen B. Nielsen, Master Sergeant Harold Mathauser, and Master Sergeant Clifford Harck.

DRESS HELMET EXAMINATION is part of a monumental yearly task for the Battle group supply department. Pictured in soon-to-be-shed coats are Sergeant First Class Rudolph Saucedo and Joseph Covich.

POINTING OUT the massive library of military directives kept on hand by the cadre of Creighton's R.O.T.C. Battle Group are two members of the department, Captain Karl Kuckhahn and Captain Hartigan.

ROTC Produces Brass

A Tuesday visitor to the Hilltop might easily mistake Creighton for a military school.

For it is on Tuesday that the horde of underclassmen enrolled in compulsory Army R.O.T.C. don Army green and trail down the hill for weekly drill on stadium turf or in the gym.

Throughout the year, the underclassmen attend lectures where they are taught military history, discipline, map reading, national security and related subjects.

Outstanding basic course students annually elect to and are selected to enter a two-year advanced program, a continuation of the basic instruction. Successful completion of this course qualifies one for a commission as Second Lieutenant, U. S. Army Reserve.

The R.O.T.C. Program Develops Students' Skills

The University ROTC program provides its recruits with an excellent opportunity for developing their talents and strengthening their personalities.

ROTC members with musical talent are invited to join the ROTC band for enjoyment. The band, directed by Louis P. Kirke, plays at the basketball games.

Sportsmanship is developed by members of the rifle team. The ten-member team, coached by Master Sergeant Harold B. Mathauser, has increased its ranks to include three more members this year. Throughout the year the team was kept busy with numerous meets.

To develop their skill for leadership ROTC students may apply for advanced ROTC.

RIFLE TEAM members are: Front row: J. Burkholder, J. Krannawitter, E. Krejci, L. Gearhart. Second row: M. Treinen, M. Kullbom, D. Cleveland, M/Sgt. Mathauser, B. Bell, J. Brady, J. Shepherd.

PREPARING for the coming federal inspection are some of the many ROTC students who will march around the field during inspection.

Athletics

Athletic Director

Athletic Director J. V. "Duce" Belford, sporty and spry as a gamecock, can be seen in the lounge reading the paper and parrying with the co-eds nearly every morning.

Duce is known all over the sports world. He is distinguished not only by his administrative versatility, but also by his athletic wit.

Last year's baseball coach, he has relinquished this task and has devoted the past year to his appointed job. Duce Belford's tenure as coach and director of athletics at Creighton has seen many changes. Now, as the Blue Jays are re-entering the big time in basketball once again, another change has occurred.

WATCHING the basketball team Duce Belford has reason to speculate.

Athletic Moderator

Rev. Norbert Lemke, S.J., is the busiest man on campus. Teaching a full load and being athletic moderator keeps him hopping and makes him a hard Jesuit to track down. Let it never be said that Father Lemke's shoes shodded the same spot for over ten seconds.

Usually seen by the Creighton philosophy student as an extreme logician, he is always somewhat of a magician as he keeps the athletic program stable by being in the right place at the right time.

A PHOTOGRAPHER catches Fr. Lemke in a rare position.

A Loaded Schedule Blasts the Blue Jays

Playing against some of the top-rated teams in the nation, Creighton ended its season on the short end of a 8-17 record. The Blue Jays need not apologize as seven of their opponents were selected to play in either the NCAA or National Invitational Tournament. In fact, the two finalists in the N.I.T. were both on Creighton's schedule, with Providence defeating St. Louis University for the title.

Two Creighton University basketball players gained honorable mention as Catholic College All-Americans. The Blue Jays who were picked for this honor are Herb Millard and Chuck Officer.

Joining Millard and Officer as next year prospects will be the rest of the starting lineup, plus some outstanding freshmen. With this in mind, fans can expect Creighton to turn the tables on its opposition next year.

JOHN J. (RED) McMANUS is head basketball coach of the Creighton University Blue Jays.

B. Eickholt, J. Callaghan, B. VanZeeland, J. Frost, T. Dowling, L. Wilberding, C. Silvestrini, P. McManamon, C. Officer, Gary Vitt, Student Manager.

Jays Win and Lose

In the opening game of the season, Creighton tasted defeat at the hands of well-balanced Illinois. Although within striking distance at the half, the second period saw the Big Ten sharp shooters pull away.

CREIGHTON 75 — ILLINOIS 99

With a Homecoming throng of 4,200 fans watching, the Jays sent the Coyotes of South Dakota yelping home. Chuch Officer led all scorers with 21 points.

CREIGHTON 74 — SOUTH DAKOTA 49

Following successive losses to N.I.T. runner-up, St. Louis, and highly rated Iowa, Creighton came back to bounce Denver U. 77-71.

CREIGHTON 64—NORTH CAROLINA 72

Then after losing to Colorado University, the Blue Jays scared nationally rated North Carolina. With Millard and Officer pacing the Jays to a 33-29 half-time advantage, North Carolina's All American, Doug Moe, came back to register 26 points, 10 in the final three minutes.

NORTH CAROLINA'S Doug Moe led a charge right through the arm of Creighton's Bill VanZee and TOM DOWLING seems to be having trouble finding a way through a tight hand.

Exhibition game against the defending champions of the NIBL.

SURE, at his feet, but how did he get up there?

Creighton Hits 107 Against Omaha U.

Coach "Red" McManus came back to haunt his alma mater. Hitting 24 and 22 points respectively, Dowling and Silvestrini led C.U. past St. Ambrose.

CREIGHTON 97—ST. AMBROSE 85

CREIGHTON 74 — LOYOLA 86

Outscoring the Chicago team in the second half, the Blue Jays treated the pre-Christmas crowd to one of the most exciting games of the year. But lacking the depth of the Loyola bench proved to be the Jays downfall again.

CREIGHTON 72 — PURDUE 91

Following a 92-63 bump at Xavier, the Creighton battlers took on the Purdue at Lafayette, Indiana. It was All-American Terry Dischonger who stole the show, directing the Boilermakers to another victory.

CREIGHTON 107 — OMAHA U. 67

It is a known fact that Omaha U. considers their season a success if only they beat the Jays. That was hardly the story as Creighton bombasted O.U. in a record breaking way. Leading Creighton in the point column was sophomore Chuck Officer who had an even 30.

CREIGHTON 78 — WABASH 77

CREIGHTON 64 — MARQUETTE 89

Wabash surprised the Blue Jays by coming from behind in the last minutes. But it was no surprise when Marquette dealt Creighton another defeat. Former Creighton coach, Ed Hickey is an old hand at rocking the Jays.

WITH HIS GRACEFUL HOOK shot Carl Silvestrini leaves the opponent with mouth open.

THE JAYS SEE RED — not Coach McManus — but Clarence Red.

MAN! ...

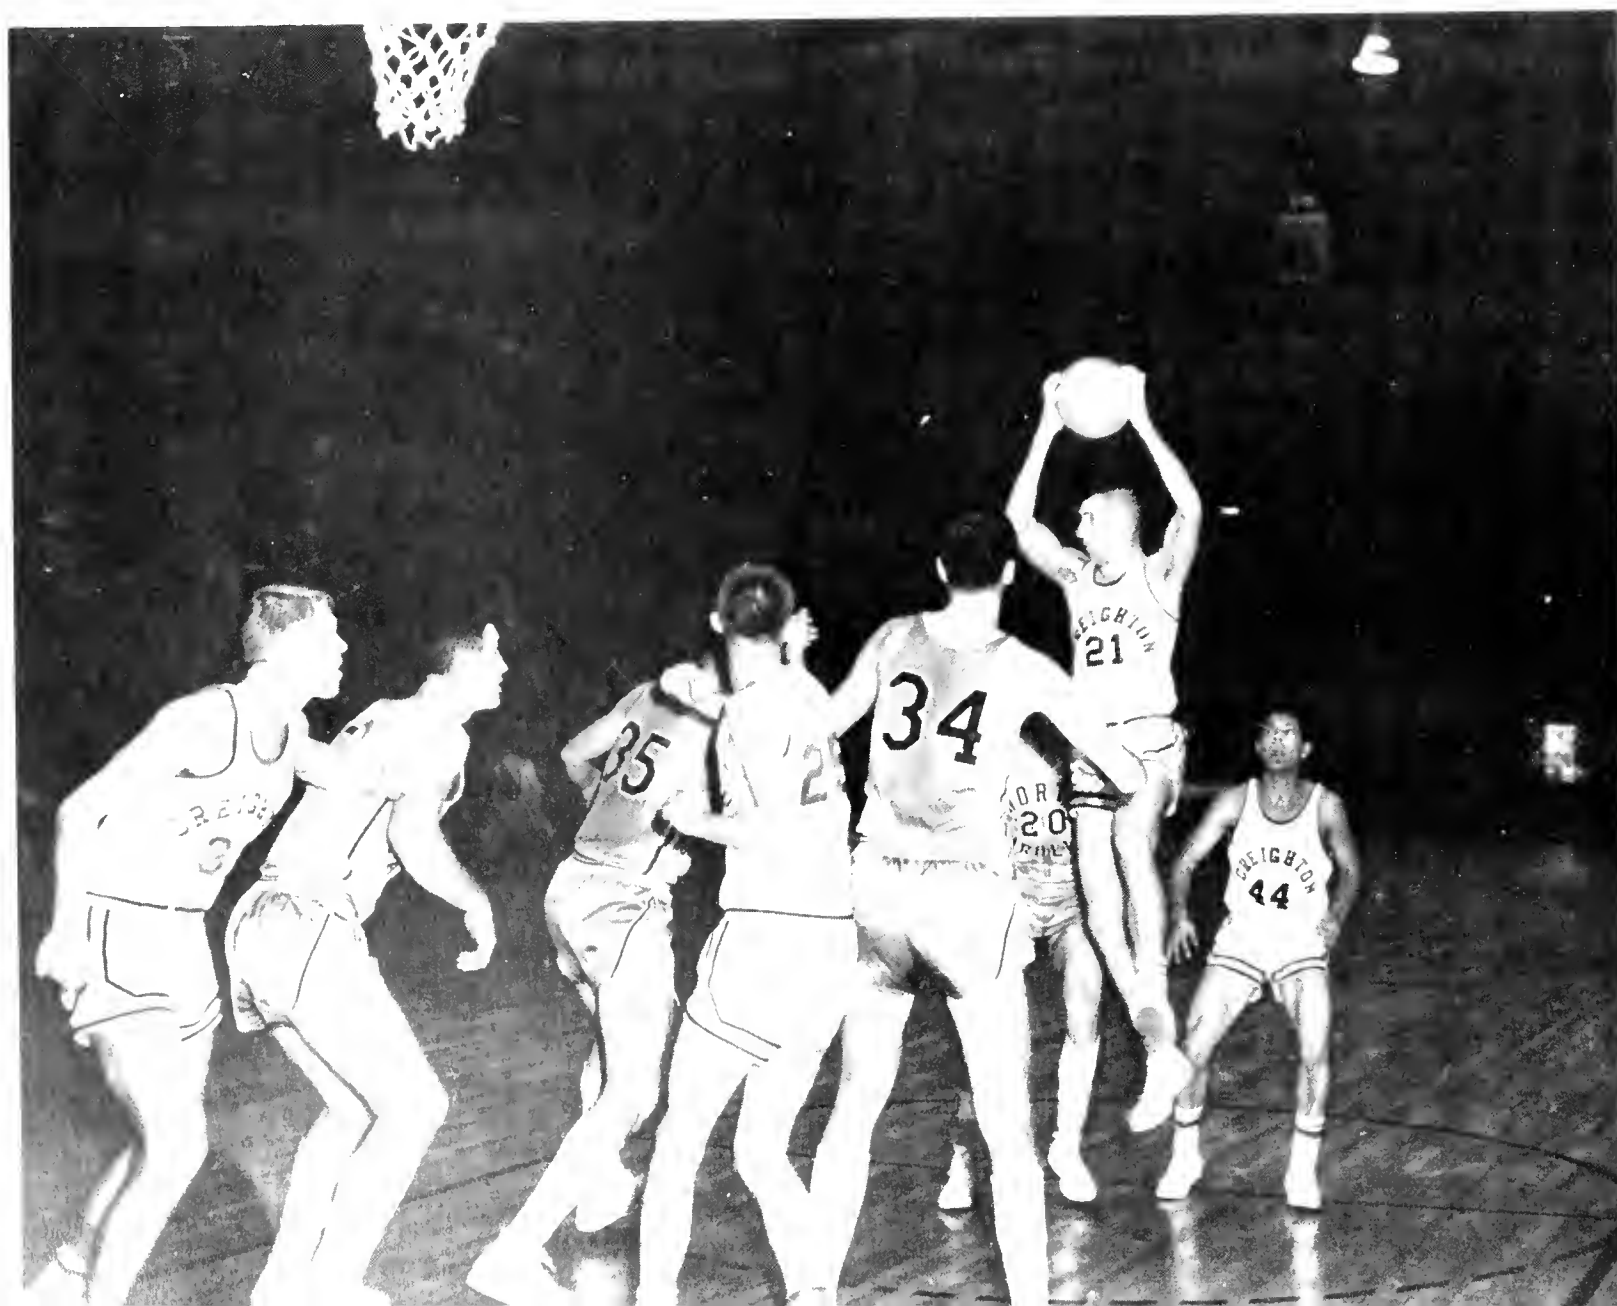

ALL AMERICAN Doug Moe cradles the ball for the tatter.

CHUCK OFFICER disregards a practical joker who has a yen for shoe strings.

HEAD AND SHOULDERS above everyone else is C.U.'s Herb Milard.

Blue Jays Fly East

The East showed its traditionally cold hospitality to the far-traveling Blue Jays. With Canisius College setting the trend, the C.U. boys went down for the count five times in a row.

CREIGHTON 89 — CANISIUS 97

CREIGHTON 75 — ST. JOHN'S 84

Even though Officer and Millard combined for 41 points, it was not enough to overcome Tony Jackson and Company. It was St. John's game, all the way.

Providence College unreeled for 115 points as the tired Jays lost their fourth in a row. Showing the form that made them champs of the National Invitational Tourney, the Friars were never threatened.

CREIGHTON 70 — PROVIDENCE 115

CREIGHTON 59 — DUQUESNE 83

Again it was the East that showed the class and the Jays who came in last. Silvestrini collected 18 points, but to no avail.

IF A GAME is won or lost, it's on the boards. Here is the reason that St. Louis University beat the Jays.

"PST! YOU'RE SHOOTING at the wrong basket." But this psychology doesn't work as Santos Jimenez scores anyway.

PAUL SILAS IS NOT THE ONLY ONE smiling as Coach McManus also has a twinkle in his eyes.

WITH FAMOUS FIGHTERS in the background, coach and team dine at Jack Dempsey's Restaurant in New York.

Freshmen Win 18 Games and Lose 3

Although the freshmen did not equal last year's undefeated season, there is still plenty of reason to be happy.

In winning their eighteen games, the Frosh, under Coach Jim Berry's skilled hand, recorded a winning margin of more than 26 points over their opposition.

Unparalleled Paul Silas, possibly the most talented player to ever set foot on Creighton's sod, led the freshmen team in almost every department. He compiled a 26 point per game average while hauling down about the same number of rebounds.

With Jim Bakos and Harry Forehand both averaging 15 points per game, Coach McManus will have a tough, but hardly an unpleasant, job of replacing only one graduating senior.

JIM BERRY, crew-cut father of two, led his Blue Jay Frosh to second place in the Nebraska A.A.U.

The University has lost not only a basketball player, but a gentleman and leader. Dick Hartmann's name will always be remembered by Creighton students. His fellow teammates and friends will remember him as the real man he was.

Dick was last season's Most Valuable Player, this season's team captain and was given honorable mention as a Catholic All-American.

His father and mother, Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Hartmann, are seen receiving the Carl Ciani Memorial Award. Given annually by the CUHLAs, it honors its athletic recipient as being the one varsity letterman who has most closely followed the ideals set forth by the late Carl Ciani.

CRASH ENDS Dick Hartman's successful basketball career.

CUHLA Presents Award

Under the direction of President Ed Curran, the Creighton University Honorary Letterman's Association has been reorganized with a new emphasis on service to the University.

Spectators at Creighton's games were met by program-selling CUHLA members. Although one facet of the club's activities, it is the most important. By giving the CU fans a more complete program, it promotes essential interest and spirit. The proceeds are used to finance the club's activities and to provide for a better program each year.

DR. AND MRS. HARTMANN receive the Carl Ciani Award

John Kellogg. Third row: Dan Dagerman, Tom Dowling, Carl Silvestrini, Don Barry, and Tom Fretz. Fourth row: Paul Determan, Stan Fulcher, Frank Fogarty, and Ed Schuitz.

LETTERMEN, Mike Kaus, Pete Dell, and Rick Wilhoit look over the course before they begin their day of practicing.

Golfers Loosen Kinks in Prep for Links

WATCHING Mike Kaus practice his swing are Rick Wilhoit and Pete Dell.

They say familiarity breeds contempt. Nothing could be more false, though, if you applied this anecdote to golf.

The golfer who knows every trap, fairway, and green to the last shadow is the golfer who comes home with the low score.

Creighton's golf team, with lettermen Mike Kaus, Pete Dell, and Rick Wilhoit taking their first swings of the year, is faced with a tough schedule that includes Nebraska U. and South Dakota U.

With most of last year's matches cancelling due to Nebraska weather, the golfing Jays are hoping for less white and more blue this year.

THEY ARE trusting souls. Aren't they?

The track team has been swallowed up in the muck of new construction. The swimming team went down for the last time. But still hanging on as a vestige of the degenerating minor sports organ of Creighton is the tennis team.

Without funds, transportation, or sponsorship, the tennis team, as well as the golf team, has represented Creighton University. Much can be said for the boys who take it upon themselves to organize, coach, and finance their sporting loves each year.

Returning from last year's team are John Kellogg, Jack Lieb, and John Easley. Coached by George Thompson, a C.U. student, the Jays are aiming to get revenge for last year's setbacks.

The team has matches scheduled with cross-town rivals, Omaha University, and also Nebraska University. Also tentatively planned by the racket-squad is a trip to a tournament.

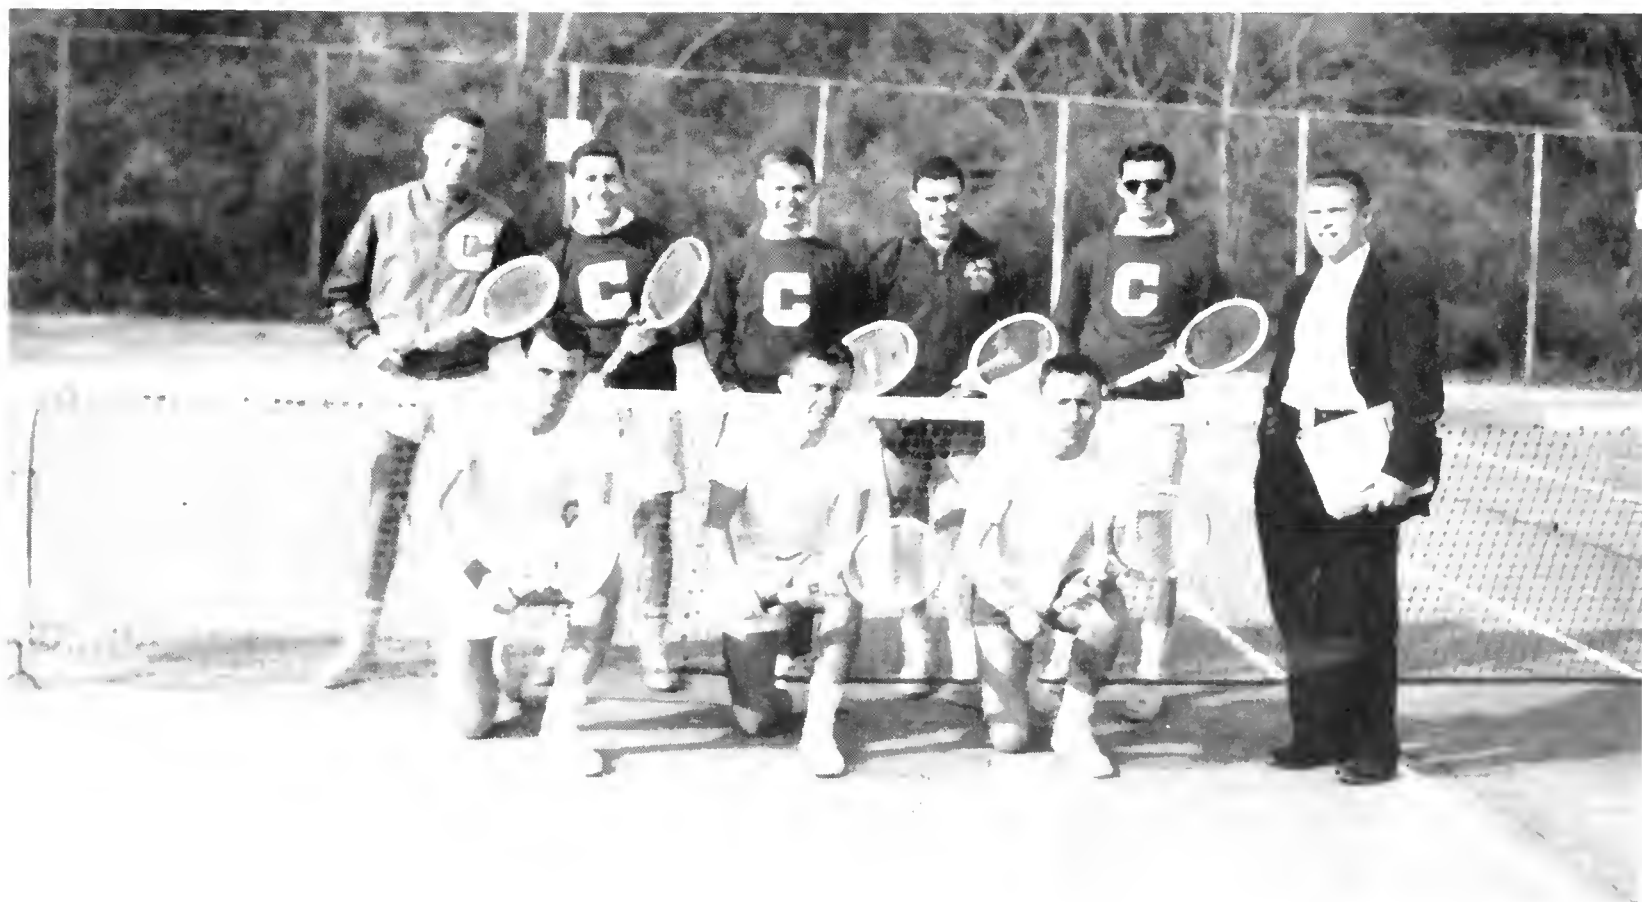

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT as three year letterman John Kellogg works on his forehand swing.

Last Year's Vets Bolster Tennis Hopes

Veteran Team Is Strong at Every Position

EVERY CATCHER has dreams of being a pitcher, but Tom Fretz laughs and says "It's unbelievable" as co-captain Don Tedesco shows him his grip for throwing a curve ball.

After a successful season last year, Coach Jim Berry has a great hopes for an even better season this year as 12 lettermen are returning. With an experienced man in every position the heavy hitting Jays will face a 13 game schedule.

The Blue Jays elected last year's top bat swingers as their leaders. Catcher Don Tedesco and Centerfielder Dan Dagerman have been chosen as Creighton's baseball co-captains.

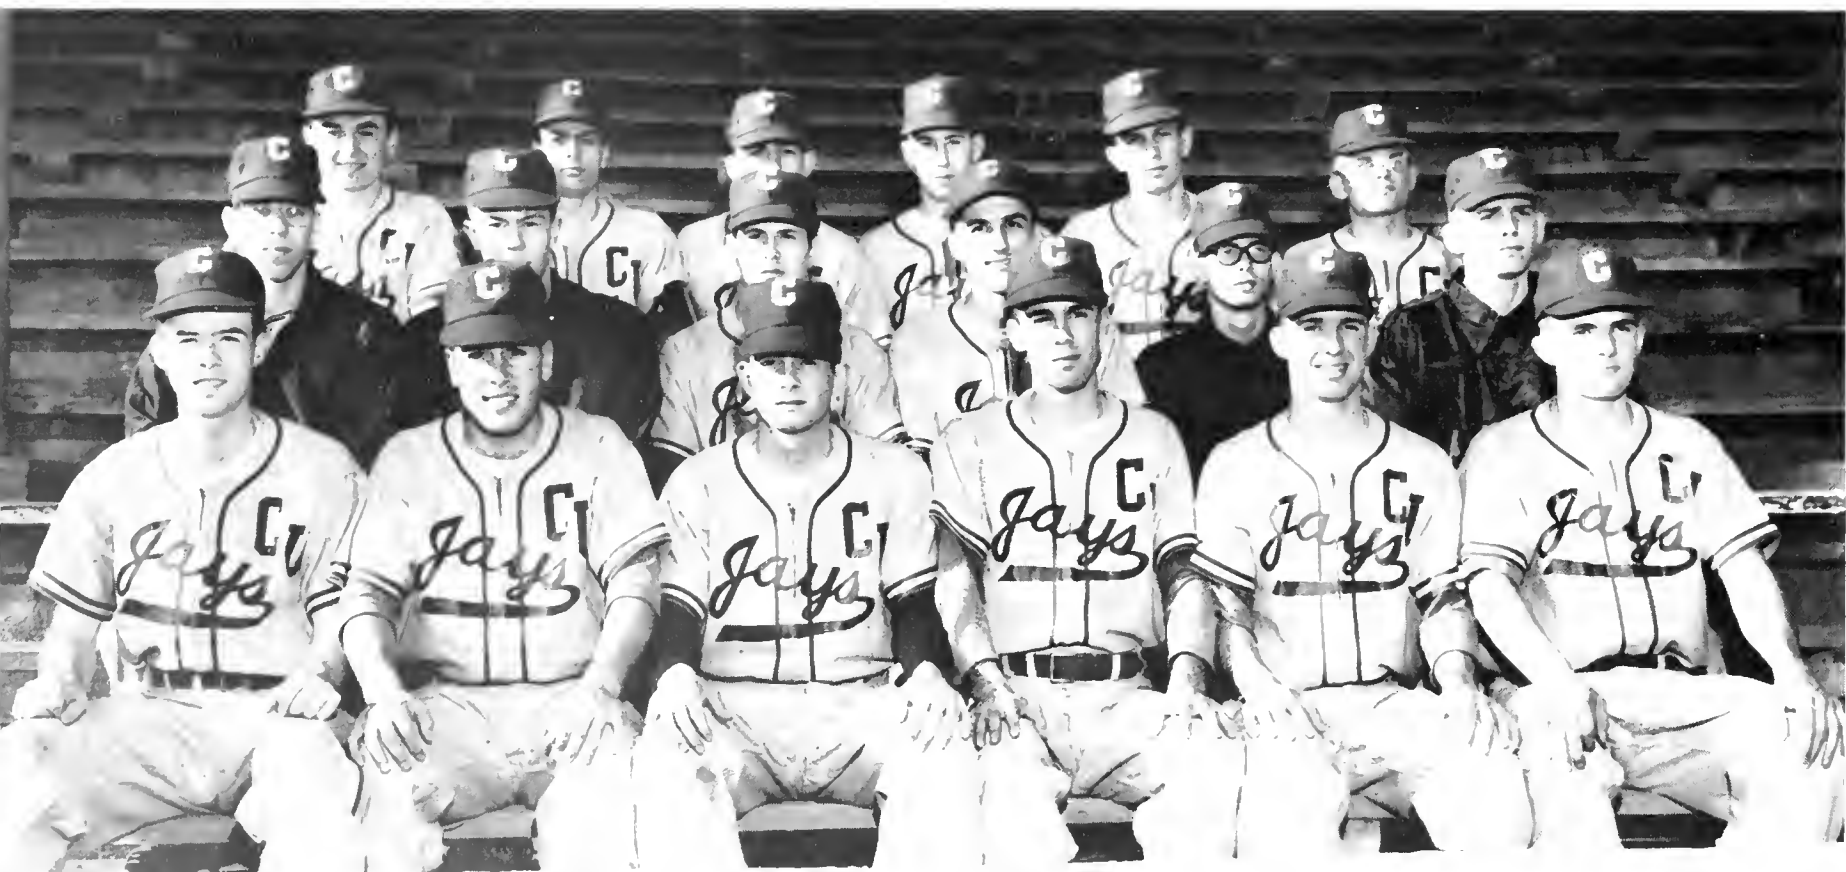

After pre-spring conditioning work in the gym — and sometimes on the field — if the snow was too deep, Coach Jim Berry is relying on last year's monogram winners to fell out his squad.

To bolster his pitching staff, Berry will have Tom Fretz and Jim Kros. Both have been chucking for two years at Creighton and can go all of the way.

Another bright spot is the return of first-bagger, Don Barry, who was injured last year. Filling out the infield will be Mike Vergamini at second, Bob McCabe at short, and Lewis Sirian at the hot spot. Bill Dagerman and Bill Balak will complete the outfield.

DAN DAGERMAN strides into third as a result of a passed ball.

MARIS AND MANTLE? No, it's Olhasso and Wilberding waiting to take batting practice.

THE SHORT STOP goes way to his right and hurries his throw. Don Barry jumps high and pulls it down.

Delta Sig Replaces RRR's as Champs

May they rest in peace. Amen. The RRR's have finally been replaced as intramural champs. Although it took three years to do it, Delta Sigma Phi has dethroned the once invincible quint named the RRR's.

With Mike Vergamini leading all scorers with 20 points, Delta Sig climaxed a perfect season by edging the nemesis of the intramural world 46-44.

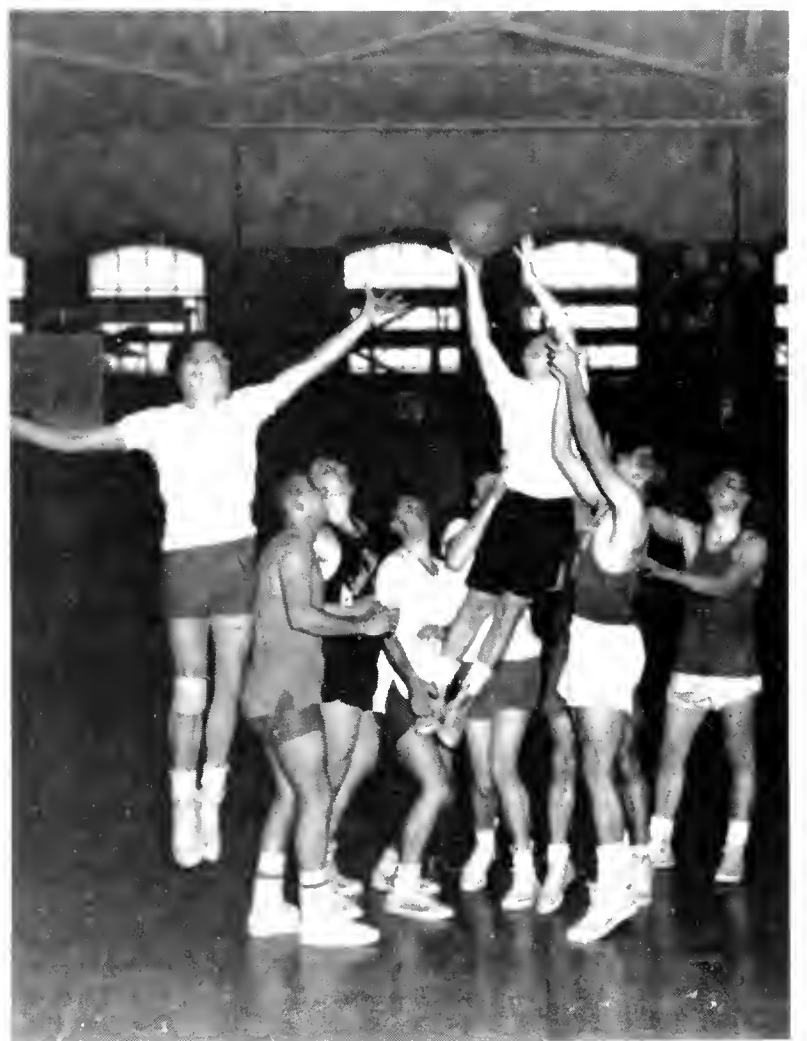

Old victims of RRR dominance quietly bow your heads. The King is dead. Long live the King.

THE FOUR-ARMED MONSTER seems to have the advantage as the tip goes up.

JUST DON'T STAND THERE! Do something.

JUST A LITTLE HIGHER, fellows. The ball seems to be hanging.

SIX PACK team members are:

Zips Are Defeated as Six Packs Cop Crown

The Six Packs, made up of Creighton Prep grads, captured their second intramural title in three years.

In the first half the Zips found holes in the Six Pack's iron defense and scored early to lead 6-0. Tedesco's loss to McCabe evened the score as the half ended.

Catching the Packs off balance, the Zips penetrated to the 10-yard line only to have a pass intercepted. Then in the final moments Tedesco led Gigliotti to the end zone to win 12-6.

ALL OF THE ACTION doesn't take place in the backfield.

SIX PACKS INTERCEPT a desperation pass.

Campus Committee Selects the 1961 "Who's Who"

Chosen as the campus leaders, outstanding in their leadership abilities and service to the University, the students in "Who's Who" have been selected for this honor by the Campus Personalities Committee.

The Committee, which is composed of three members of the Student Board, one representative from the Pan-Hellenic Council, one representative from the Interfraternity Council, Mrs. Maurine Hamilton, Dean of Women, and the Rev. Austin E. Miller, Dean of Student Affairs, voted on the candidates that each representative group had nominated.

The voting was done by secret ballot, and each representative had one vote. The election was presided over by one of the three Student Board representatives who was appointed chairman. The end result was 24 members of "Who's Who," the five student representatives on the Committee and 19 other students, at least two from each school, chosen by the group.

The qualifications for eligibility were that they be full or part-time juniors or seniors in any of the colleges or schools of the university and that they have contributed loyalty to the university and were of service to their fellow students.

Gamma Pi Gives Service

Gamma Pi Epsilon is a chapter of the national Jesuit honor society for women; membership qualifications include high scholastic standing and loyal service to the University.

Innovations by Gamma Pi this year were the publication of an activity calendar and the introduction of a tutoring service by members. The Coed Tea, Creighton Week and "Bonnie Bluejay" are also Gamma Pi activities.

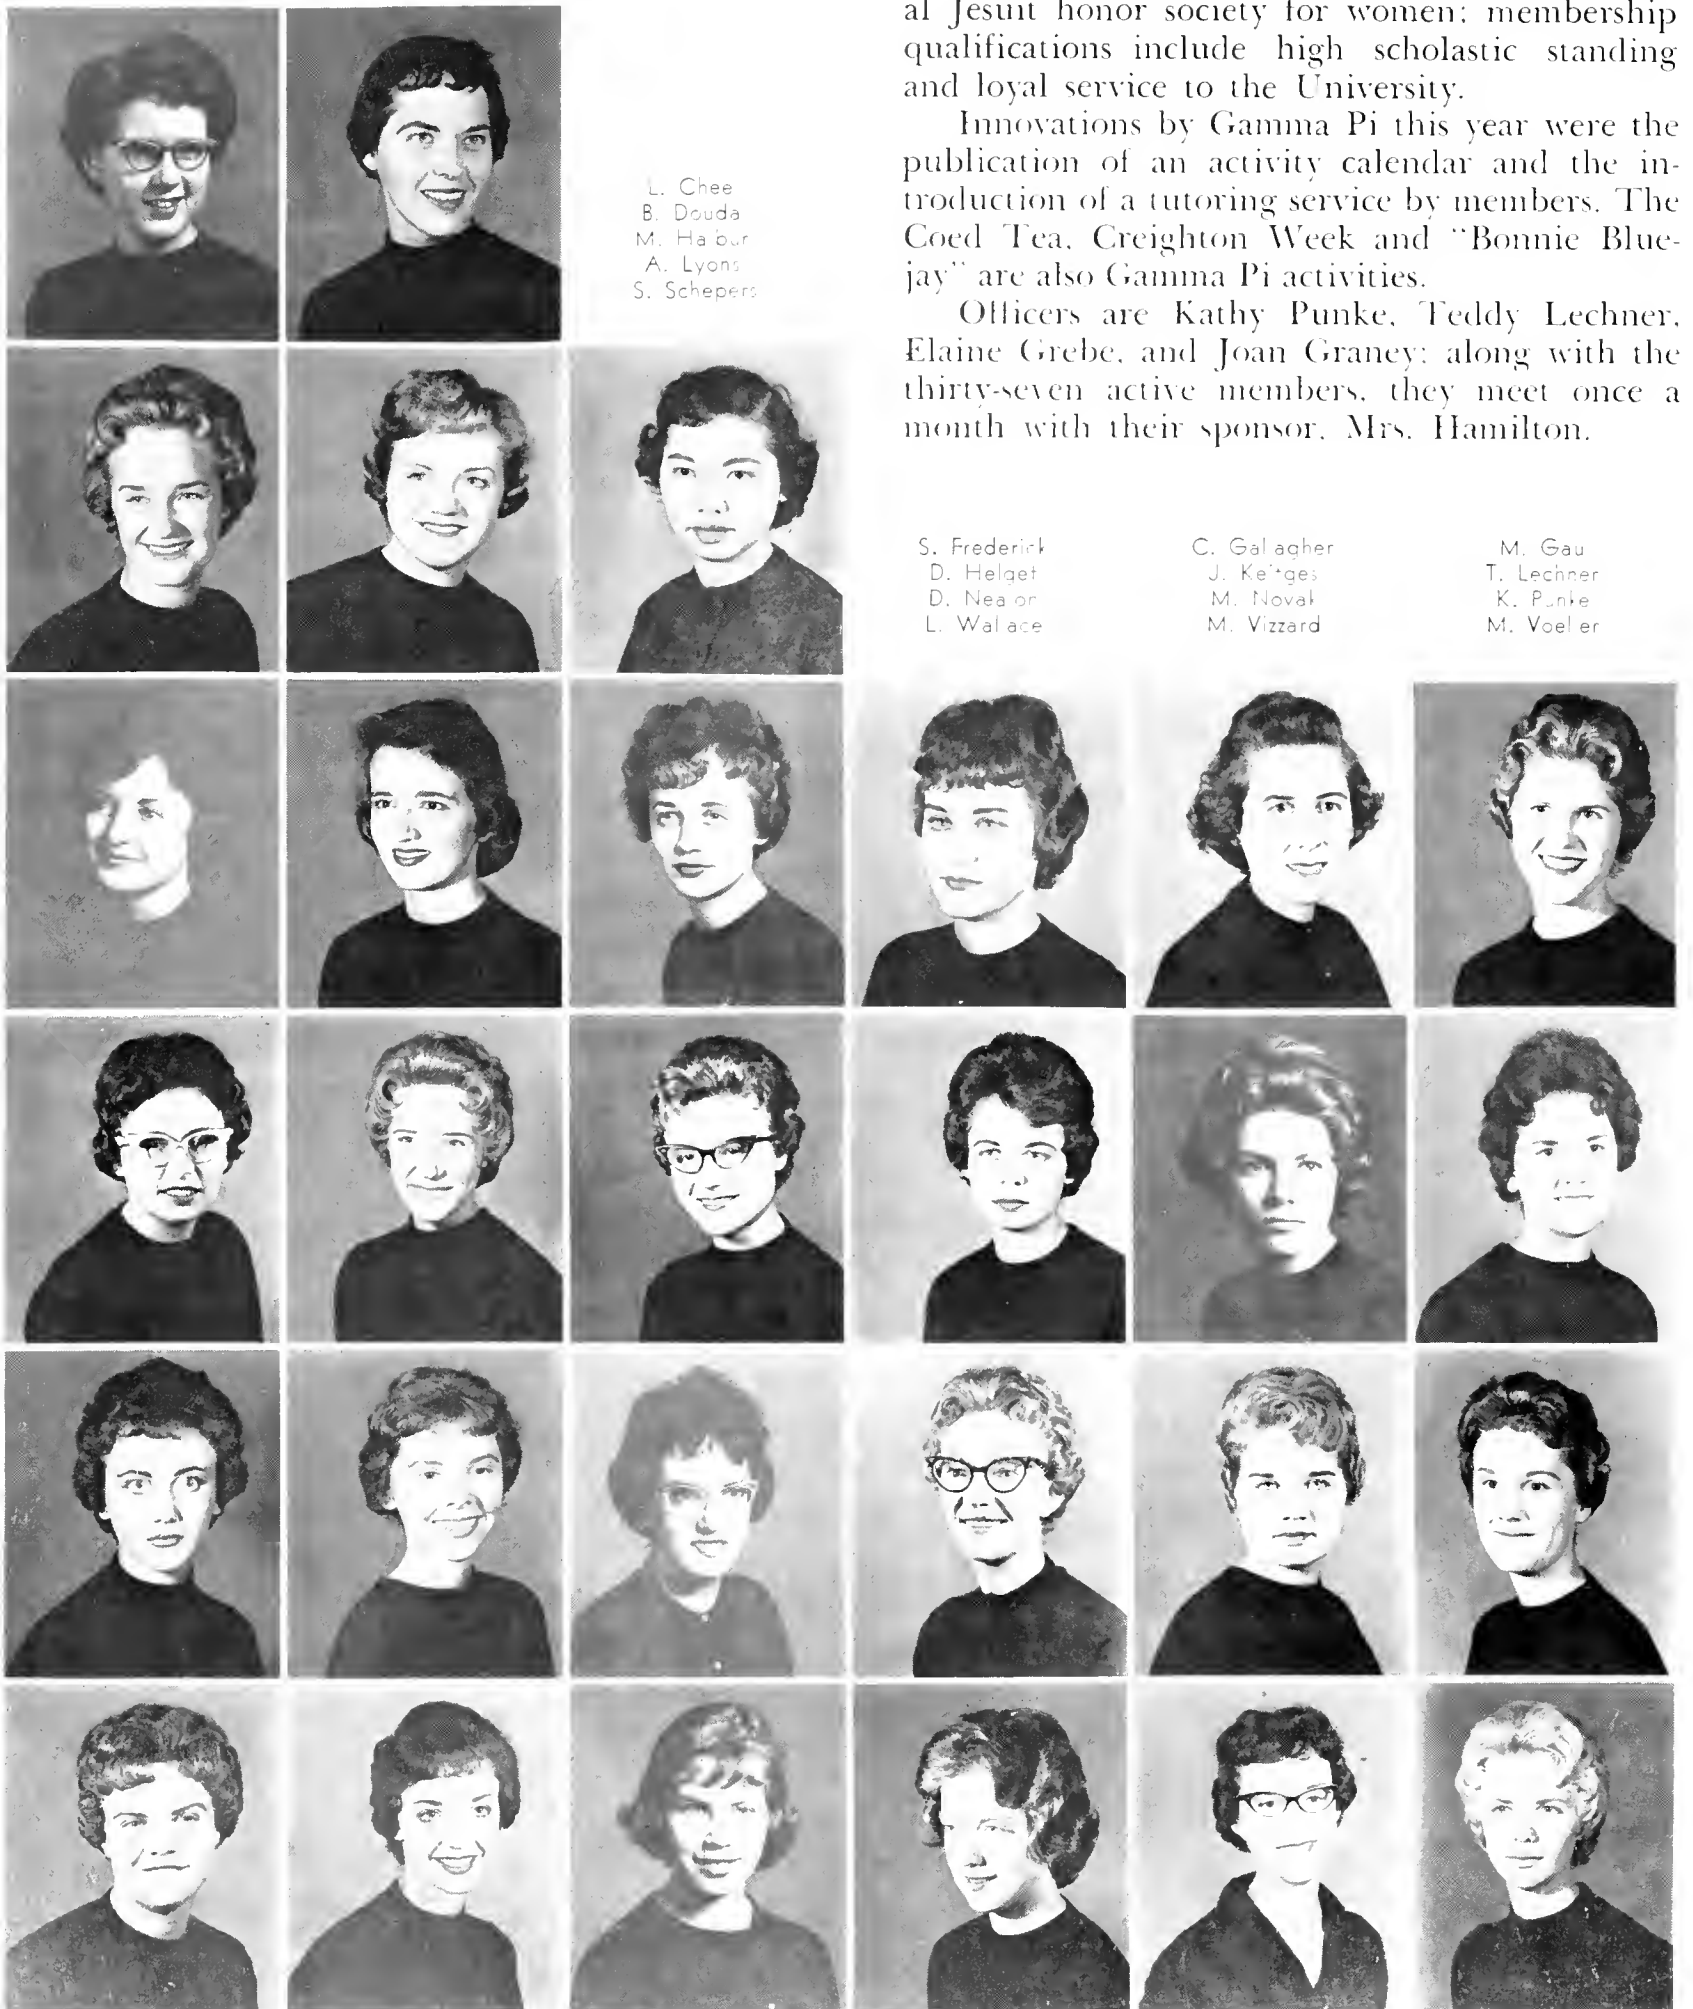

Officers are Kathy Punke, Teddy Lechner, Elaine Grebe, and Joan Graney; along with the thirty-seven active members, they meet once a month with their sponsor, Mrs. Hamilton.

Alpha Sigma Nu Brings Guest Lecturer to Creighton

The Creighton Chapter of Alpha Sigma Nu, the Jesuit honorary society, is pledged to the promotion of cultural and intellectual understanding on the Creighton Campus.

Yearly, the activities join with the Alumni Association of Alpha Sigma Nu to present the annual Alpha Sigma Nu guest lecture by some prominent person. This year's speaker was William F. Buckley, publisher of the National Review and noted Conservative.

Membership in this fraternity is limited. Each year two outstanding male students from the junior class of each school and college as well as three-all school choices are pledged to Alpha Sigma Nu." Membership is based upon scholarship, service and loyalty to Creighton.

This year the officers were: Jerry Kasher, president; Lee Foreman, Vice-President; Leland Mick, treasurer; and Fred Montag and Pete Gepson, secretaries. The moderator of Alpha Sigma Nu is Rev. Henry W. Casper, S.J.

PREPARING TO SEND out invitations to the Alpha Sigma Nu Lecture are society members Tim Rouse, John Baker, and Leroy Foreman.

Interest in debate, public speaking, and other forms of discourse is the unifying force for the members of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensic fraternity.

In spite of its size, the fraternity managed to sponsor numerous events. Outstanding among these was a fund raising dance.

Sending its members to the D.S.R. Speech Tournament in Madison, Wisconsin, was another of Delta Sigma Rho's accomplishments.

The addition of five new members to the Delta Sigma Rho roster evidenced growing interest in forensics.

Directing the fraternity was Jim Brady president. This year, Delta Sigma Rho acquired a new moderator, Rev. Harold McAuliffe, S.J.

Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary historical society, is the newest recognized fraternity on the Creighton campus. The aim of this organization is to further interest in historical studies and recognize high achievements in the field of history.

Scholarship is the selecting factor in determining membership. All members have attained a "B" average and have achieved outstanding ability in history.

The moderator of Phi Alpha Theta is Dr. Allan M. Schleich, and the officers of this year are Francis Munch, president; and Kathleen O'Connell, vice-president.

Organized in 1902 at the University of Illinois, Alpha Omega Alpha, the national honorary medical fraternity came to Creighton in 1954. This year members sponsored the annual lecture, panel discussion and the initiation dinner.

The aims of the fraternity are the promotion of scholarship and research in medical schools, the encouragement of a high standard of character and conduct among medical students and graduates, and the recognition of achievements in medical fields. Membership is open to juniors and seniors in the upper half of their class.

Faculty advisor is Dr. Richard Egan, and the 1960-61 officers are Joe Cali, president; Dan Combo, vice-president; and James Mahoney, secretary-treasurer.

Perfect their Respective Goals in their own Field

Maintaining the scholarship and professional interest of its members is the goal of Beta Alpha Psi, honorary accounting fraternity.

The main projects of the fraternity are sharing its knowledge with others who have more difficulty with accounting, sponsoring a remedial course for students in lower division classes, and holding seminars on particular problems confronting the public accountant.

Officiating over the meetings this year were Robert Sorensen, president; Leonard Adams, vice-president; Kenneth Dirksen, secretary; and David Adams, treasurer. Moderator of the fraternity is Dr. John P. Begley.

The women students of the school of Medicine have combined forces to form one of the smallest sororities on Creighton's campus. Alpha Zeta Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Iota, national medical sorority, accomplished its primary goal, providing a source for professional contacts for these future doctors, in spite of the small number of members in the group.

Alpha Epsilon Iota members were industrious throughout the year. Among the organization's various activities were included monthly Communion Breakfasts, dinners, picnics, and many impromptu meetings.

Officers of Alpha Epsilon Iota Sorority were: Mary Claire Vizzard, president; Lorene Aanasasi, vice-president; and Louise Vanslager, treasurer.

Moderator of the sorority is Mrs. Richard L. Egan, wife of the Dean of the School of Medicine. This year is Mrs. Egan's second as Moderator for the group.

Honorary Groups Set up Standards of Excellence

OFFICERS are: Steve Cannon, Mary Rafferty, and Joel Moser.

Alpha Psi Omega, honorary dramatics fraternity, is devoted to promoting interest in dramatics on the campus.

During homecoming week the Thespians helped with the production and direction of a talent show and also presented a movie "The Last Hurrah."

The most important production of the year for the fraternity was the Creighton Capers which occurred late in April. The Capers is an annual project for the members, and local groups on campus are invited to submit acts for this production.

A distinguished visitor in the person of Mrs. Mary K. Reiff, national college editor from Kansas City, Missouri, was welcomed by Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority as she made a national inspection this year. The inspection involved a check of the officers, ceremonies, and other procedures.

The members of Alpha Sigma Alpha enjoyed a busy year with such events as a Communion breakfast after the Convocation Mass, selling mums during the Homecoming season, building a float with CUHLA, their annual Christmas party, and many other enjoyable activities.

Kay Krebsbach was given the annual Margaret McGuire award of Alpha Sigma Alpha as the outstanding pledge of the year.

The members also participated in the Pan-Hellenic spring formal and the February initiation dance.

Their chapter moderator is Mrs. Rebecca Stefes.

Theta Phi Alpha Supports Philanthropic Project

SETTING OFF ACTIVITIES for Theta Phi Alpha, the annual White Rose Tea was held for rushees at the home of Nano Naughtin.

Chi Chapter of Theta Phi Alpha, national social sorority, started off a successful rush and an eventful year with its traditional White Rose Tea. "My Blue Heaven" was the theme of the informal party held at Camp Brewster closing rush activities.

The members supported Glenmary Missions, their philanthropic project faithfully throughout the year. The Spring dinner-dance and the Senior Picnic were a few of the social activities which fostered longlasting friendships among the girls. The Founders Day Luncheon in April and the new Mother's Club have also become an important part of the sorority.

The officers of Theta Phi Alpha this year were: Mary Ann Voeller, president; Bif Belford, vice-president; Mary Schwinghamer, recording secretary; and Mary Halbur, treasurer. The very gracious moderator for the group is Mrs. Rosemary Gross, Instructor in Chemistry and Mathematics.

The Pan-Hellenic trophy for the sorority with the highest scholarship was again awarded for the fourth consecutive year to Theta Upsilon at last spring's Pan-Hellenic formal.

And again throughout the year, the sorority led a busy social life with the annual semi-formal initiation dance in February, steak fry in the spring, followed by the Pan-Hellenic spring formal.

In addition to their many social activities, the members found time to diligently support their national philanthropic project, contributing to the welfare of the Navajo Indians, and as a result of their efforts received three awards at the national convention of Theta Upsilon Sorority.

Council Promotes Unity

COUNCIL OFFICERS are: Sharon James, Sec.; Mary Kay Brenner, Pres.; Marialyce Killeen, Vice-Pres.; and Judy Raymer, Treas.

The Pan-Hellenic Council's most important project for the year was the third annual Pan-Hellenic Workshop. Each sorority was represented by its delegates and two alumnae. They met to work out problems among the sororities on campus. The New Greeks, a group organizing a fourth sorority for the Creighton campus, was helped out by the workshop.

In February the Council sponsored its always successful Pan-Hellenic Dance, and in May, a dinner-dance for all the sororities.

The Council held the Greek weekend in the beginning of the year to welcome the freshmen and to acquaint them with sorority life and Creighton in general.

The officers this year were: Mary Kay Brenner, president; Marialyce Killeen, vice-president; Sharon James, secretary; and Judy Kay Raymer, treasurer. The moderator for the council is Mrs. Maurine Hamilton.

Alpha Phi Omega Gives Seventh Year of Service

CONGRATULATING Queen Judy Kosch are Alpha Phi Omega President, Joe Hura, and fraternity brother, Frank Barta.

Alpha Phi Omega, Kappa Chi Chapter of the national service fraternity, is set up to serve the student body and faculty of Creighton.

1960 was the seventh year on the Hilltop for APO members as they carried out their duties for the school. Each semester the activities have helped guide people through the rigors of registration.

Among their other duties this year, APO helped with the Vic's Crusade for CARE throughout Omaha, and they also continued their weekly duties as the keepers of the Lost and Found.

Leading the fraternity in this successful year were: Joe Hura, president; Ted Lownik, vice-president; Don Reffert, treasurer; and Barney Urbanyi, secretary.

The moderator of the fraternity is Rev. James J. Quinn, S.J.

Alpha Kappa Psi Promotes New National Business

Furthering members' individual welfare, fostering scientific research in the fields of commerce, accounts, and finance, and educating the public to demand higher ideals in the business world are the goals of national business fraternity Alpha Kappa Psi.

Eight professional dinners with prominent Omaha speakers as well as the new national business project on "Books for Better Business Procedures" were means of achieving these goals.

The Silver Key Award was given to Mr. Fred Cotter, President of the Omaha Alumni chapter.

On the social scene, the annual Sweetheart Dance held in honor of this year's queen, Miss Fran Kemmer, was the main event.

Fraternity officers are: Lou Oswald, president; Mike O'Daniel, vice-president; Don Wagner, secretary; and Tom Roe, treasurer.

Dr. Valentino, Assistant Dean of the College of Business Administration, is the moderator.

DISPLAYING the Alpha Kappa Psi flag are Mr. Fred Cotter, President of the Alumni Chapter, and President Lou Oswald of the Delta Pi Chapter. Looking on is Mr. Peter Kiewit, an honorary member of the fraternity.

The Delta Sigma Delta Calendar Was Filled with

Clinics, lectures, and seminars were on the agenda this year for Delta Sigma Delta, national dental fraternity. Speakers for the numerous lectures were selected from the various dentists in the Omaha area.

Delegates were sent to the district conclave of Delta Sigma Delta, which was held this year at the University of Minnesota.

This year's rush featured a steak dinner at Gorat's and a pledge dinner at the Cimarron

Room with the music of the Inkspots. The outcome was 25 new pledges to the fraternity.

Among the parties given by the fraternity were the Hawaiian and Western parties. Both provided fun and variety for the members.

Assisting President John Zapp were: Dick Gosney, vice-president; Bob Schenk, secretary; Dick Albers, treasurer.

Moderators of the fraternity are Dr. Harold Kreski and Dr. John Rerucha.

THE VICTORS in a friendly football game with their brother Delta Sigs are: Clair Hausman, Frank Bemis, Bernie Meurrens, Don Berry, and Jim Kasher. Not pictured is Johnny Unitas.

Homecoming brought victory to Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity, as their float won first place in the Parade. Delta Sig's car, "The Untouchables," also copped a first prize.

The purpose of the fraternity is to promote closer affiliation between business and student, to maintain a high scholastic record, and provide a better standing of Creighton's Business Administration School by Senior Guidance Day.

Delta Sigs are active citizens, participating in the Red Cross Blood Drive, and collecting over $300 for the March of Dimes. On campus, members usher at the Student Masses, distribute and collect the Mass cards.

Membership is open to Business students who have at least a two-point average.

Officers for the 1960-61 year are: Clair Hausman, president; Don DeMars, sr. vice-president; Don Barry, jr. vice-president; John Kern, secretary; and Tom Samson, treasurer.

Iota Kappa Epsilon Fraternity Strives to Develop

BEFORE PLEDGING the rushes the actives of Iota Kappa Epsilon, and their dates enjoy a party given for the prospective members.

Begun in 1958, the IKE's were originally known as the Irmaknights. Soon after their start, the members realized that there was a need for more enthusiasm in the Creighton athletic program, both in varsity and intramural sports.

To spark this fading ember of enthusiasm, IKE compiles intramural basketball and track statistics as well as ushering at all of the home varsity basketball games.

The IKE's stand behind their biggest goal which is to develop friendship as well as greater athletic and school spirit on the Hilltop.

The fraternity, presently forty-four members strong, also has its social side with its monthly dinners and the Spring Formal. The IKE's First Lady is picked at the Spring Formal.

Directing IKE's this year were Bill Slattery, president; Ed Gatz, vice-president; Rick Wilhoit, secretary; and Tom Rowen, treasurer.

The IKE's moderator is Rev. Anthony P. Weber, S.J.

Phalanx, Honorary Military Fraternity, Works

A BONFIRE needs wood. Getting the necessary fuel for the bonfire rally presented during Homecoming week was a task that was delegated to Phalanx and which they performed efficiently.

The Military Ball is the highlight of the year for Phalanx, the national military fraternity. As an example of their ingenuity, Phalanx employed an armored tank as a ticket booth to promote the Military Ball.

The main purpose of this group is to foster interest in military training, to give spirit of fellowship among military men, and to aid in the preparedness of this country and implant discipline.

Awards are given to Delta Morae (Chapter) members on the basis of promotions. The title of best squad leader is given each year to the most outstanding "basic".

Phalanx is affiliated with the United States Army, and membership is open to those in the Advanced Corps of ROTC.

Members usher for Convocation and graduation, act as color guards for Convocation, and also sponsor manpower and financial support for various activities. Moderator of Phalanx is Captain Karl O. Kuckhahn.

Phi Chi Assists in Development of its Members

RELAXING while studying is the thing to do. At least, Ron Spadoni seems to think so as he studies one of his many medical books.

While the members of Phi Chi, national medical fraternity, prepare themselves professionally and spiritually, they also round out their lives socially.

As well as a Founders' Day Banquet during the year they also gave a welcome party for the freshmen and sponsored Thanksgiving, Christmas, pledge and St. Patrick's Day parties. Guest speaker for the Founder's Day Banquet was Dr. William Novak.

Two of the fraternity's yearly events are the senior banquet, honoring the seniors, and an annual dinner-dance.

During the year the fraternity also held seminars and invited a guest speaker to be present at each of them.

Officiating over the meetings this year were: Kennard Kapstafer, president; Patrick McGreevy, vice-president; Tom Rauner, secretary; and John Chard, treasurer.

Moderator of Phi Chi Fraternity is Dr. Richard Q. Crotty.

Leadership, Scholarship Are Required of Phi Delta

Phi Delta Chi, national pharmacy fraternity, seeks to foster fellowship among pharmacy students at Creighton. Phi Deltas aim to achieve their goals through the motto: "One cannot do without the help of the other."

Most school activities will find a Phi Delt participating or lending his service. Leadership and scholarship are requirements for eligibility into the fraternity.

Organization of an active alumni group is now underway. The Phi Crier, and alumni paper being written by the actives, was introduced last year.

Highlight of the year was the announcement of Miss Mary Rafferty as the "Sweetheart of Delta Chi." Two delegates were also selected to attend the American Pharmaceutical Convention in Chicago this year.

Officers were: Jim Giesler, president; Jim DuBe, vice-president; Don Factor, secretary and Tom Richmond, treasurer.

Glendon D. Redman serves as moderator.

WITH THE MODERATOR, Dr. Glendon Redman, are the officers: Don Factor, Sec.; Jim DuBe, Pres.; Ron Smet, Vice-Pres.; and Chuck Eickhoff, Treas.

BEARING UP under the strain of fraternity life are: John Demman, Jim Schultz, Joe Volpe, and Bob Schwartz.

In addition to a busy professional and social life, members of Phi Rho Sigma, national medical fraternity, also find time for charity. In conjunction with the Phi Rho med wives, the fraternity sponsors an annual Easter Party for Omaha orphans.

Monthly lectures are given at the house by one of the fraternity's alumni. The annual Adolph Sacks Memorial Lecture is given at the Student Center and features some prominent figure in the medical field. This year the speaker was Dr. Richard Lillehei, head of surgery at the University of Minnesota.

Not to overlook the social life, the fraternity has many informal parties and dances. Annual affairs include the Christmas party and the Mardi Gras.

Officers for this year were: Bob Schwartz, president; Jim Schultz, vice-president; Dennis McDonnell, secretary; and John Sullivan, treasurer. Moderator of the organization is Dr. Robert J. Laffin.

A FEW XI PSI PHI MEMBERS gather around and watch as Aaron Walter works on his patient. Aaron has a faculty supervisor there too.

Xi Psi Phi, dental fraternity, has a three-fold purpose: scholastic, social, and athletic. Guest speakers and table clinics add to the education of these future dentists. Xi Psi Phi members participate in nearly every sport, and the "ZIP 1" team captured the Interfraternity League title this year.

To qualify for membership, pledges must be dental students, have at least a two-point average, and be accepted by the fraternity members.

Each year the fraternity presents senior members with a special mug, and awards honors to top students at the Senior Banquet.

The 1960-61 officers are James Brown, president; Jack Kingery, vice-president; Louis DiGiacomo, secretary; and Walter Aaron, treasurer.

The moderator of the Alpha Kappa chapter is Dr. William Carlyle.

The Xsi Psi Phi organization, founded in 1915, effects an intake of valuable experiences and outside learning with an outlet for sports and social activities for its members.

Interfraternity Council Unifies Fraternal Groups

The Interfraternity Council serves as a unifying element of the school's fraternal organizations. It discusses and regulates fraternity activities, and attempts to create an interest in cultural, social, athletic, and scholastic achievements.

The Interfraternity Athletics promotes intramural competition and sponsors Greek Day in the spring. All of the fraternities participated in the Olympics on Greek Day and awards were presented to the best athlete and to the best organization.

The Council is made up of one junior and one senior representative from each fraternity.

The highlight of the year for the Interfraternity Council was the Helen of Troy crowning at the Interfraternity Ball on January 6.

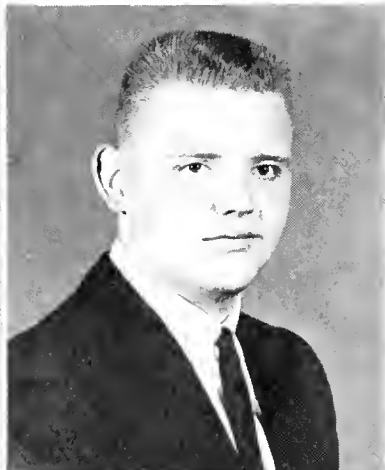

The Ball was the mid-point in a year with a full social calendar for the members.

Moderator of the Interfraternity Council is the Rev. Austin E. Miller, S.J., Dean of Student Affairs.

Dorm Life

"NO I CAN'T WRITE THAT TO HIM!" Letter-writing Mary Goodwin doesn't appreciate the advice of friends Joanne Schindler, Deanna Greco, Pat McWilliams, and Rosemary Gieth.

"HELLO! IS THIS DEGLMAN? We would like to speak to . . ." chime in Sanna McKenna, Sharon Burke, Micki Wenzel, and Pam Anderson.

Agnew, Largest Co-ed

Agnew Hall was home for forty-one girls during the school months. Under the watchful care of Miss Alice Johnson, housemother, and the two proctors, Agnew coeds shared the fun and work that spells college.

Brains run high in Agnew, as was acknowledged when the names of two four-pointers, Dolores Balkovitz and Judith Albi, appeared on the Dean's List. Agnew also boasts three cheerleaders, Sharon Burke, Pam Anderson, and Micki Wenzel.

"LETTERS! WE GOT LETTERS!" chorus Mary Jeanne Jones, Marya Garrigan, Nancy Hanly, and Mary Louise Zevnik. Dejectedly, Jo Ann Novak holds the magazine she received.

JOHNNY MATHIS HITS Agnew Hall! Relaying to the sweet sound of music are Sanna McKenna, Micki Wenzel, Mary Lu Lehnert, and Pat McWilliams.

WE DO OCCASIONALLY STUDY! These Angewites, Beth Gale, Pat Tice, Mary Lu Lehnert, Sharon Burke, and Karen Steinke, gleefully mix fun and study.

Dorm, Claims a Queen

Highlighting the year's excitement for Agnew Hall was selection of Pauline Zachary as Freshman Cotillion Queen.

Homecoming found these girls working on dorm decorations and floats, and participating in all the festivities.

Within the walls of Agnew, the coeds found a break in studies for pizza and popcorn parties.

Attaining honors for Creighton was Agnew-ite Judith Albi, who placed sixth in the Jesuit Inter-collegiate English Contest.

THE SQUARE ROOT OF . . . Joanne Schindler shares her mathematical knowledge with non-mathematicians Mary Goodwin and Pam Anderson.

"WON'T YOU BE MY TEDDY BEAR?" Clutching their favorite teddy and lardies are Beth Gale, Pauline Zachary, Pat Tice, and Karen Steinke.

Co-eds Return to Find Noonan Hall in New Setting

SOME GIRLS earn money by taking in laundry. Mary Beth Reilly and Jean Palmer demonstrate what makes bright things brighter.

The place may be different, but the name is the same, as Noonan Hall has moved from its old site to another building on California.

The nineteen sophomore coeds of Noonan Hall find college life in a dormitory full of excitement and work. Under the watchful eye of two proctors, Sue Staebell and Lynne Urie, these co-eds share the drudgery and the laughs. It's a busy group—the phone is constantly ringing, and there is always a shriek or cry of distress that spells success or failure.

Two of these Noonan-ites have been named to the Dean's List: Jeaneatte Wortman and Katherine Dante.

Returning to the Hilltop for their second year of schooling, most of these grls are renewing friendships that began in their freshman year. The majority of the group is studying either business, med tech, journalism, or nursing.

"AFTER YOU FINISH that stack, you can start ironing the socks," says Sharon Scott as Joan Hetzler finishes the last article.

PHYLLIS GREGG is just waiting for the plumber to come so she can take the kitchen sink as she prepares to depart for home.

MARY ANN JACOBS, Jean Palmer, Joan Hetzler, Sharon Scott, Phyllis Gregg and Mary Beth Reilly enjoy and study music appreciation in the spacious music and recreation room.

Aquinas Hall Cops Homecoming Decoration Prize

Sharing the work and fun of college life are the twenty-three freshmen coeds of Aquinas Hall. Banding together, these girls surprised everyone, including themselves, by winning the women's dorm decoration prize during Homecoming. A Christmas party was their victory celebration.

Popcorn parties, hair-styling sessions, and gab fests are a part of Aquinas life. But these coeds are studious; two of them made the Dean's list. This dorm also boasts a Freshman Cotillion Princess, Sue Billinger, and a Varsity cheerleader, Kathy Quinn.

Ever-busy, these girls have found a home-away from home, under the care of Mrs. Marie Brumgardt, housemother.

Representing twelve different States, the Aquinas coeds find friendship and fun amid the often hectic routine of daily classes.

ZOOKEEPERS OF AQUINAS HALL, Sharon Short, Jann Vollhaber, and Annette McCluskey display these specimens of the animal world.

ANOTHER GAB SESSION OCCUPIES the time of Joan Acker, Di LaBarre, Sue Billinger, Ann Garvey, and Barb Kavanski. Sitting on the steps enjoying a joke is a favorite pastime of Aquinas girls.

ATTEMPTING TO REAP knowledge from these stacks of books are Ann Gish, Joan Acker, and Kathy Downing, who wonder why there isn't infused knowledge when test time comes around ever so often.

ALWAYS A NECESSITY even during test time are refreshments. Clustered around the pop machine are Donna Kay Franch, Jann Vollhaber, Joan Acker, Barb Kavanski, Ann Garvey, and Di LaBarre.

THESE THREE girls, Janet McCurdy, Ann Yaggie, and Marcella Welch, are overly happy because someone donated a new Mad to the dorm.

MARCELLA "Bring 'em Back Alive" Welch and Mary "Catch 'em on the Run" Whelan caught this little fellow running through the basement.

"Togetherness" is the motto of the nine Edward Hall sophomores, as they share many gab fests. They have a perfect atmosphere for study, for the two proctors, Lynda Wallace and Arlene Ahlers, and soph Mary Kaye Wolpert, are on the Dean's List. The dorm Halloween party and Homecoming decorations highlighted their year.

Annex and Edward Hall House Smallest Number

Three Freshman Cotillion Princesses, Carolyn Greer, Kathy Bates, and Mary Virginia O'Keefe, were from the thirteen girls and two proctors of the Coed Annex dorm. These spirited coeds won second place in the WRA basketball tourney. The Annex boasts one Dean's List student, in the person of Carolyn Greer.

"THE PAPER is good," says Kathy Bates to Mary Virginia O'Keefe and Sanna McKenna, "the only thing is you misspelled your name."

KEEPING WATCH over their flock of stuffed animals are Jan Vitzthum, Barbara Miano, Jan Groark, and Beverly Bartlett.

Celebrating birthdays has become a tradition among the nineteen girls in Sarah Emily Hall. These coeds boast two "Dean's Lists" students, and a majority of nursing or med tech students.

From Sarah Emily comes Leslie Horn, Freshman Cotillion Princess. Mrs. Anabell Hodapp is the housemother of this dorm.

THE FOLKS said, "yes," to the new chat Mary Beth Lovitt wants. Friends Kathy Dempsey, Sandra Hannum, and Jan Groark are happy too.

Fun, Study Found in Sarah Emily and Mary Halls

The nineteen coeds in Mary Hall represent nine different States. These girls, under the care of Mrs. Florence Garvey, have found that all phases of dorm life can be very enjoyable.

Mary Hall boasts a Frosh Cotillion Princess, Betty Musil. The Varsity team was cheered on by B. C. Dorwart, auxiliary cheerleader.

ASKING Betty Musil if they can talk to him, too, are Kay Krebsbach and "B.C." Dorwart who would also like to use the phone.

CONVINCING Joanne Mabe and Kay Krebsbach that there is a good television show on, and there is no time for study is Tiah Foster.

"MY SPEECH TEACHER swore this worked when he was in Dowling," howls Pat Garland as Bob Zeilton helps out. Steve Vecchio watches.

"THE PROCTOR'S JUST AROUND THE CORNER," sing Dick Bailey and John Bray. "so let's goof off."

DEMONSTRATING a fundamental technique of Scientific Escapology are Jim Lawless, Terry Eihl, and Steve Vecchio.

Dowling Hall Stands

Dowling Hall boasts the biggest front lawn of any boys' dormitory on the Creighton campus. This magnificent expanse of greenery has been found suitable for sunbathing, practicing golf shots, and for growing dandelions and mushrooms. Due to its proximity to the Bookstore, Dowling exudes a certain air of intellectuality quite Richard D. McGloin, S.J., who also teaches Latin. Finally, Dowling affords an excellent view of Degelman Hall.

IT'S 3 A.M. and just a short walk to Aquinas, but Dave McNeill and Leonard Fromm are, no doubt, merely out for some air.

ACTIVE MEMBERS of the Huckleberry Hound club and the Mouseketeers are Paul Peters, Steve Vecchio, Bill Hahn, and Jim Lawless.

"WE CAN HARDLY compare the literary merit of Mad with that of the Atlantic Monthly," Denny Maijard explains to Franklin Young.

"THAT'S WHAT the house-mother said, fellas. Next time don't hide in such an obvious place." Father Quinn tells Pat Lorenz and Jim Burns the proper way to escape detection.

Occupants of Wareham Hall, Men's Dormitory,

Taking time-out from the harried world of academics, the men stuffed white napkins through

Residents of St. Joseph's Boast of High QPA

St. Joseph's Hall, Creighton's newest men's dormitory, overlooks the athletic field and rubs wall with the gym.

Although the number of occupants is small, the members of Club St. Joe boast of having the highest scholastic average of any dorm on the Creighton campus.

The dorm houses upperclassmen only, and admittance is on a selective basis. Residents enjoy dorm life in this unnoticed building. Away from the noise and confusion typical of the more populated areas, these St. Josephites managed to get a lot of studying done.

"IT WAS QUITE LATE one evening when von Braun and myself discovered this formula," Cage Johnson points out to Jim Anderson, Bob Saffell, Santos Jiminez, Jim Frost, Tom Eichler, and Bill Smith.

Communications

HAVING EVOLVED a new mode of communication are Larry Wagner, Dan Lawrence, and Jerry May. Jim Anderson is not communicating at the moment.

Creightonians, Both Students and Faculty, Find

COMMUNICATION PAR EXCELLENCE is Mary Ann McDernett, who has a whole switchboard the dream of every true Creighton co-ed.

Whether it's via air waves, sound waves, light waves, or hand waves, communication is the thing. In a recent coast-to-coast survey Creighton students were found to be communicating well above the national average. This can be proven by any boy who wants to call a girls' dorm between 7 and 9 P.M. These are peak communication hours for girls, which is a relative thing, since girls are known to be able to communicate on a 24-hour basis, if necessary. Boys' peak communication hours generally occur on weekends. Teachers' peak hours occur whenever they are not in class.

WORKING ON THE LAW PAPER, the Docket, are Law students John Kellogg, George Thompson, Pete Paoli and Al Steinbock.

THESE CO-EDS are employing a non-vocal means of communication. It will get the Message across.

that Communications of All Sorts Are Necessity

MARY CAIN communicates, Margret Myers meditates, Bill Dennis ponders. (below) For the other end of the conversation, see page 224.

FOR TODAY'S communication Arts quiz caption this photograph in twenty-five words or less.

GIVING the cue for rehearsal to begin, Jim McEvoy directs KOCU staff, Maggie Harris, Margie Myers, Larry Sampier, Jeanette Wortman, and Bill Dennis.

AIDED BY THE KOCU United Press teletype, Jim McEvoy gives up-to-date and accurate news coverage of national, world-wide, and local events to the campus listeners.

Campus Coverage, Music, News, Interviews, and PRODUCING A PROGRAM requires much work, both on the part of the production and talent staffs. Left to right are Jim McEvoy, Larry Sampier, Marge Myers, Bill Dennis, and Jeanette Wortman.

"From the hilltop campus of Creighton University . . . this is radio station KOCU . . ." Thus begins another broadcast from the studios above the Bookstore.

The purpose of the campus radio station is to provide entertainment for the students and faculty, and to serve as a laboratory for the students. Since this is a carrier-current station, reception is limited to those buildings to which the "cable" is connected.

MEMBERS OF KOCU'S music department, Margie Myers, Jeanette Wortman, and Dennis Mailliard are responsible for providing good music to relax with or study by.

SELECTING GOOD, listenable music is no problem for KOCU Music Director Jeanette Wortman, since there are over 1,000 LP albums in KOCU's extensive and varied music library.

KOCU ENGINEERS must be familiar with the various technical equipment in the station control room. Here Larry Samper and B. Dennis try out the tape recorder.

Sports Provided by KOCU, Hilltop Radio Station

Announcers, newscasters, sportscasters, and engineers are the "voice" of KOCU. But equally vital are the members of the production organs, the music, traffic, and continuity departments.

Leading the Executive Staff was Joel Moser, first semester, and Jim McEvoy, second.

Highlighting the broadcast year were remote coverage of basketball games, drama productions, including "War of the Worlds," and "Hamlet," and "Hilltop Interviews," and "seminar '61."

GATHERING AROUND the KOCU directory before going into the studios for a broadcast are staff members Jeanette Wortman, Margaret Myers, and Jim McEvoy, station manager.

CHIEF ENGINEER, B. I. Dennis, gives Larry Samper instructions on how to run the control room equipment according to definite FCC regulations governing the radio station.

FIRST SEMESTER editor of the Creightonian is Joan Graney.

Relaxation Comes 26

It's a busy life in Room 330 for the staff of the Creightonian, the campus weekly. Behind the 13 issues published each semester lies the tale of the editor calling for deadlines, reporters tracking down stories and frantically trying to type up the copy, artists poring over drawing boards.

LOOKING OVER THE JOB done in this week's issue of the Creightonian are staff members Jim Mihalic, Charles Huff and Jerry Tighe.

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR, Art Konopka while working on this week's editorials ponders the question, "What do I say at this point."

CHECKING over their this week's news stories are Jim Mihalic, Terry Weide, Jerry Tighe, Ted Bruning and Charles Huff.

and photographs puzzling over the problem of developing pictures.

Under the direction of David A. Haberman, director of the Journalism Department, the staff tries to present a more interesting and factual paper each week.

SECOND SEMESTER managing editor, Art. sen. or. Kathryn O'Donnell.

STAFF MEMBERS Terry Weide, Bob Dwyer, and Ted Bruning, discuss the best way to approach the news story that Bob is working on.

THE ALWAYS BUSY Creightonian photographer, Bill Cardwell, gets his equipment ready for another full day of picture taking.

WORKING AT THE COPY DESK are Bob Dwyer, Tish Ruda, Genevieve Ploke, Kathy O'Donnell, Mike Ryan, and Ann Bergschneider.

GETTING READY to erase a typing error is editor Gretchen Kilibarda.

FORGETTING THEIR WORK for a moment to converse about non-yearbook subjects are staff members Mary Cain and Patricia Haase.

Staff Review Year's Activities in 240 Pages

Despite the obstacles that seemed to fall in front of the members of the Blue Jay Staff with every step they took, this year's review of the events that crowded the schedule of Creighton University was finally drawn to a close.

Under the editorship of Gretchen Kilibarda and with the approval of moderator, Charles Zuegner, the clusters and stacks of ingredients were sifted into a book of 240 pages and sent to the printers in Camden, Arkansas.

COMPLETING ONE OF THE LAYOUTS is Layout Editor Rennie Heath.

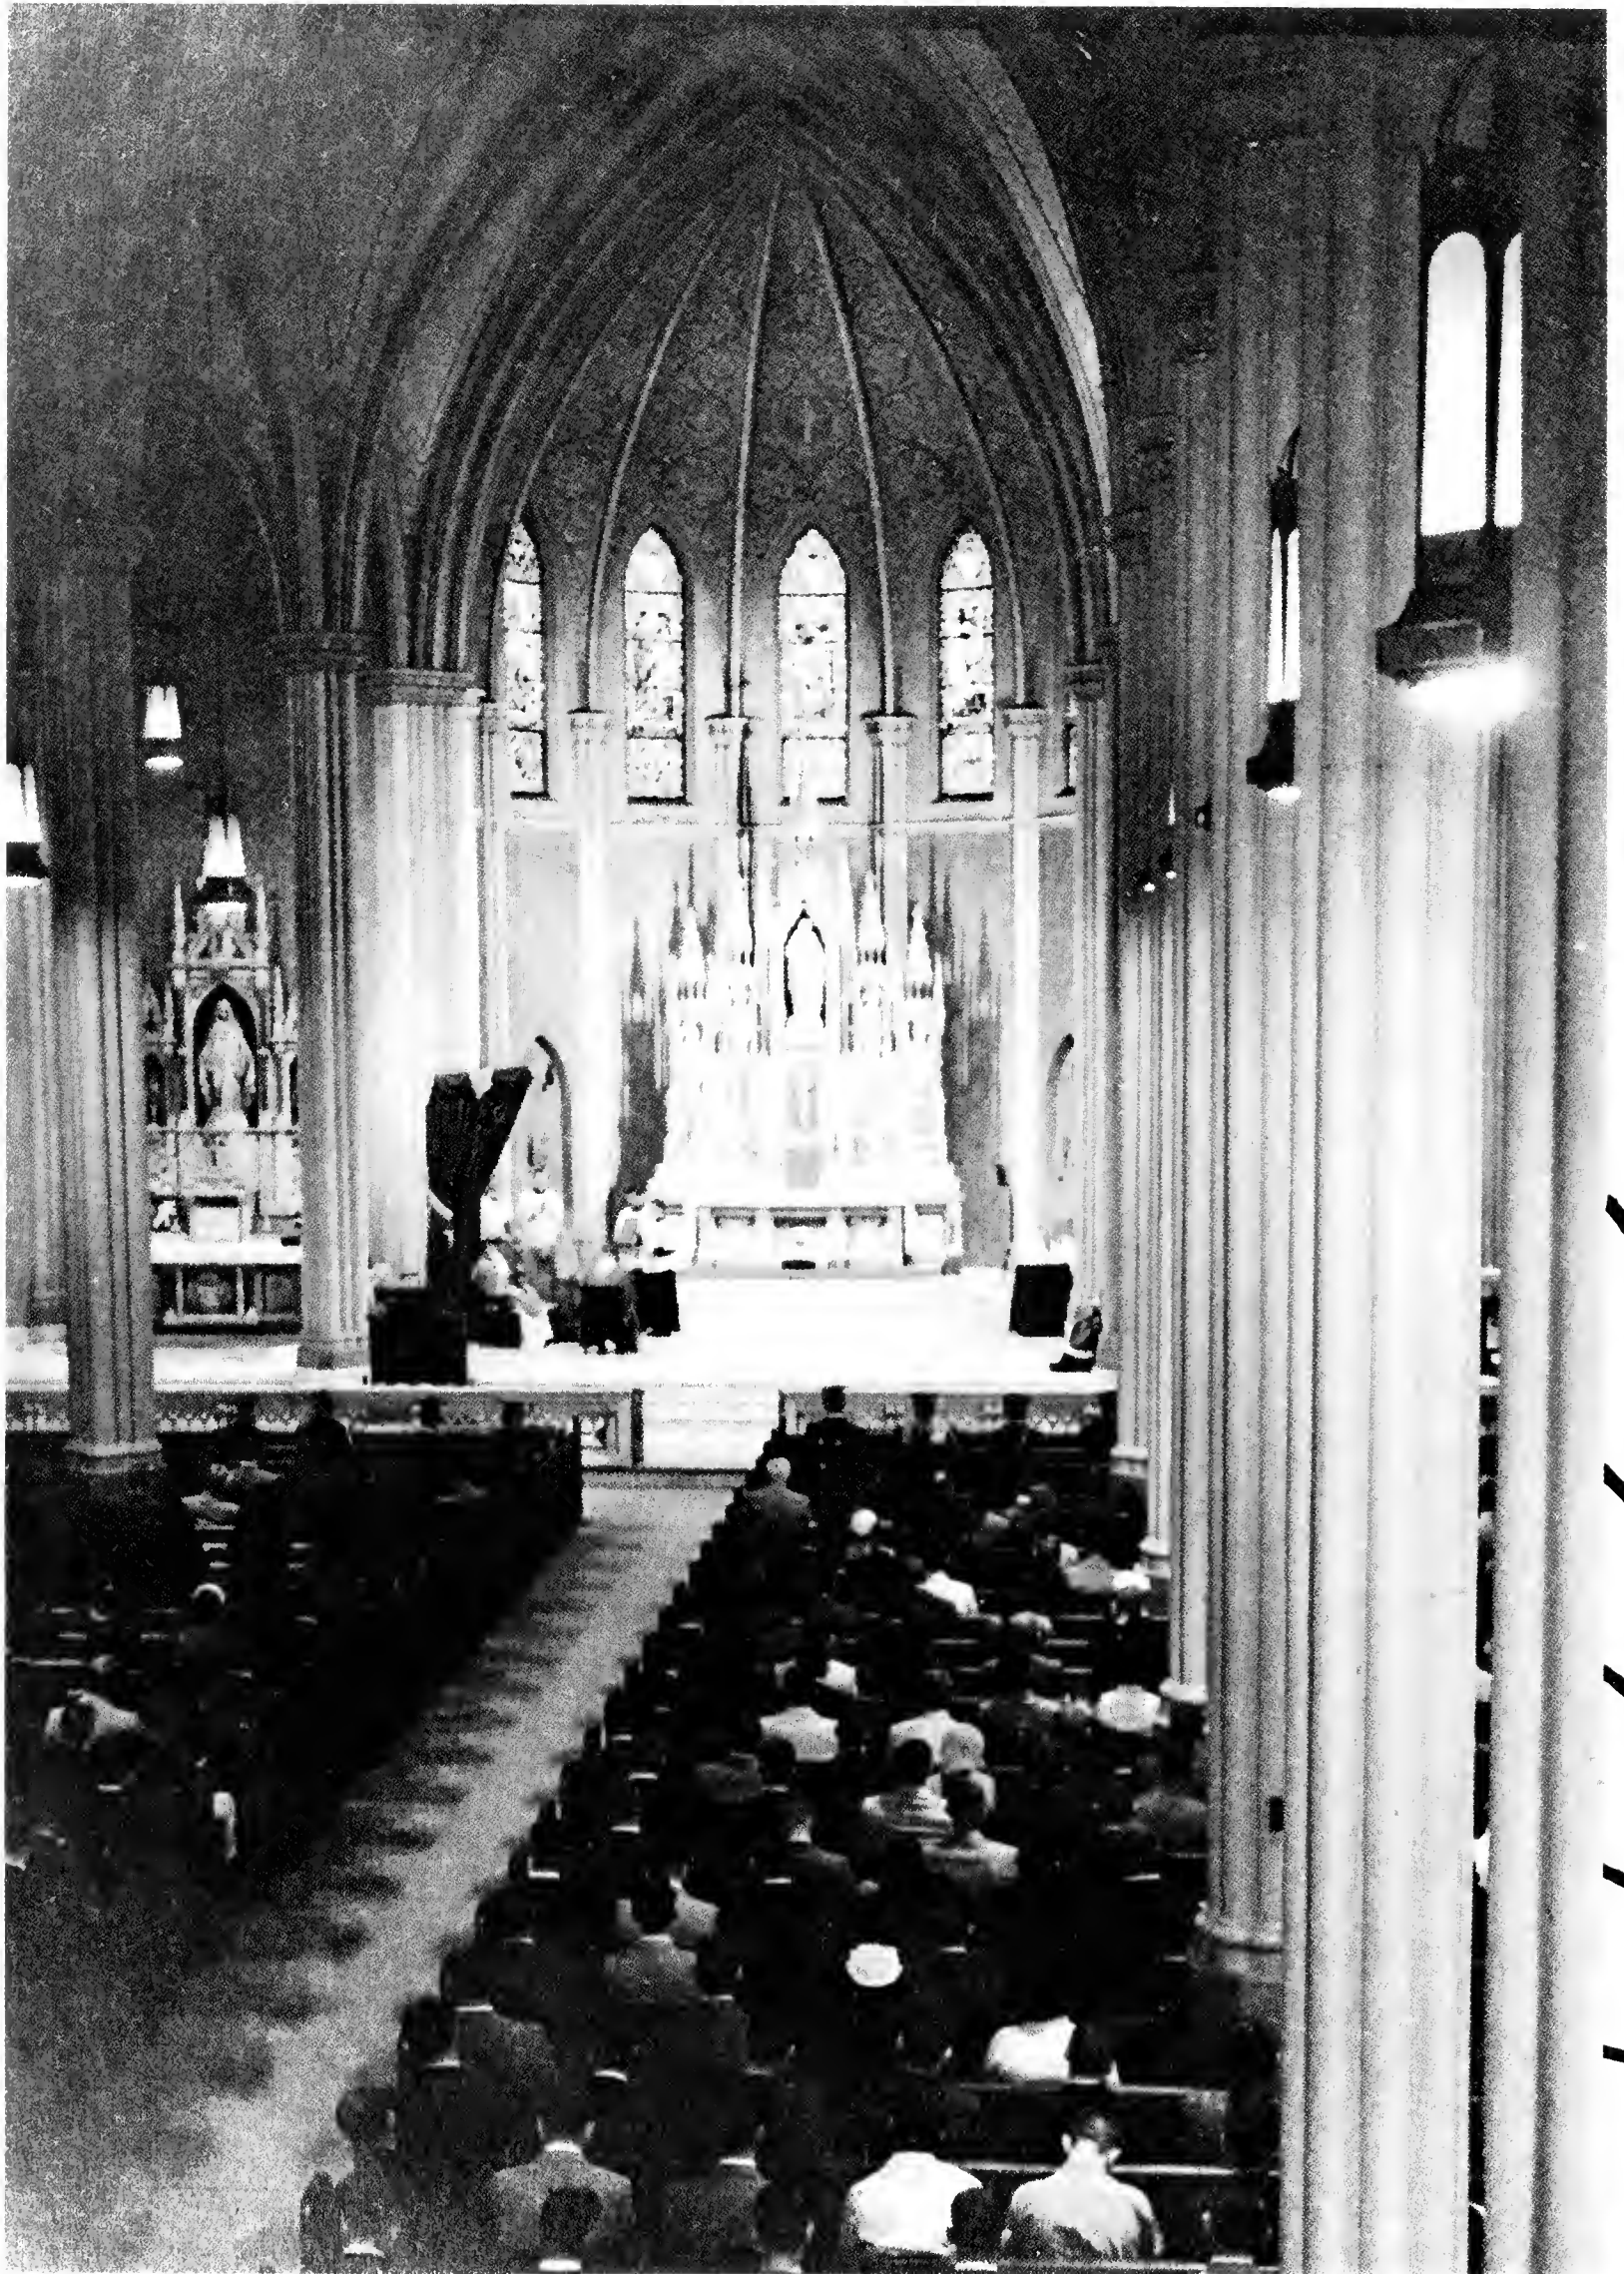

PREPARING to take some pictures is photographer Roger Barrack.

LOOKING through the file for sports pictures is Paul Determan.

TRYING TO FIND a more suitable word than the one that they now have are Literary Editors Margaret Myers and Annette McCluskey.

The Credo of Creighton

We believe in God.

We believe in the personal dignity of man.

We believe that man has certain rights which come from God and not from the State.

We therefore are opposed to all forms of dictatorship holding that the "total man" (totalitarianism) belongs to the State.

We believe in the sanctity of the home — the basic unit of society.

We believe in the natural right of private property, but likewise that private property has its social obligations.

We believe that Labor has not only its rights but also obligations.

We believe that Capital has not only its rights but also obligations.

We are vigorously opposed to all forms of "racism" — persecution or intolerance because of race.

We believe that liberty is a sacred thing, but that law, which regulates liberty, is a sacred obligation.

We believe in inculcating all the essential liberties of American Democracy and take open and frank issue with all brand of spurious "democracy."

We believe, briefly, in the teachings of Christ, who held that morality must regulate the personal, family, economic, political and international life of men if civilization is to endure.
